Great People, the Welsh
The Greatest Mother
Eating the Youngest Girl
"Ready to Be Bumped"

—By Arthur Brisbane—

Copyright, 1922, Star Co.

"Lloyd George likely to quit in two weeks." That is the more or less inspired cable. If Lloyd George quits, sell English exchange, you'll make money.

If he quits, as able a man as ever carried the load of a great empire will go, and they will find no man to replace him. As Chancellor of the Exchequer, he found the money for the war. He was not afraid to tax wealth. The yells of Tories and capitalists did not disturb him. He knew the old fashioned way taxing little people would not pay for such a war.

And he collected the taxes—that is more than some other countries have done.

As Minister of Munitions, Lloyd George supplied the weapons for fighting through the war. As Prime Minister, he supplied the policies that did the English share in winning the war. And of all the great leaders in the great catastrophe, he is the only one—excepting perhaps Lenin—still at work.

Where will Great Britain find a man to replace that wonderful Welshman? There is no blood or brain to beat the Welsh, no country, in proportion to size, that has produced more greatness than little Wales.

Yesterday, in his first order concerning France, the new Pope, Pius, proved his excellent judgment. He declared the Virgin Mary to be the patron saint of France, and Joan of Arc, recently made Saint Joan, France's secondary patron saint.

Joan of Arc was a great heroine, leader and fighter, savior of her country from the English.

But the Virgin Mary is the great mother. The baby that she bore and nursed brought salvation to the world, protection for women and children, true democracy, the brotherhood of man, preached in the name of God Almighty.

The greatest woman is, and always will be, the greatest "mother."

Horrible tales of cannibalism, too well authenticated, come from starving Russia. You read the dreadful story told in court by a mother: "I am a widow, had four daughters, fifteen, thirteen, ten and seven years old. The youngest was ill. The oldest suggested killing and eating the youngest. I slaughtered her at night. Sleepy and ill, she neither resisted not screamed, etc."

Thousands have eaten the bodies of the dead, "mass cannibalism" is spoken of.

It is a heavy load on the consciences of statesmen that blockaded Russia and caused this famine, seeking to compel payment of debts made by the Czar, while "they" were not paying their own international debts. It would worry them if they believed in God and a hereafter, which they do not.

We did our share of the dirty work, but did it ignorantly, the people not consulted, and the guilty officials, pitifully ignorant provincials that in exchange for flattery let Europe lead them by the nose.

Yesterday, at Washington, capital of the nation, they hanged John McHenry, twenty-two years old, after putting it off for one week that he might "have time to save his soul." Whether he saved it in that week is not known. He was rather cold about it. "They say I'm no good; maybe I ain't. Anyhow, I'm ready to be bumped off. What's the use of stalling around?"

It was not much of a compliment to Saint Patrick to hang a man on the good saint's day—not much of a compliment to our civilization to hang him at all.

He could not escape his deformed brain. But the nation could have avoided the disgrace of imitating the murderer, killing through hatred or fear. Capital punishment is a disgrace, and murder by the individual will last as long as murder by the State.

Something more cheerful—geologists say they can do prospecting by aeroplane. Flying low, with a good glass, they can identify and map out the various geological formations. They can drop down to investigate, or direct prospectors, saving them weary years of plodding over mountain ranges. What wealth the fliers may uncover no one can guess. The earth's hidden treasures have scarcely been touched.

If cannibalism stories from miserable Russia depress you, remember how much worse it was once—when France passed laws against eating bodies dead of the plague, for instance. Famine and cannibalism were not considered especially shocking when the nobleman, outside his castle gate, might see peasants lying dead, with half-chewed grass in their jaws. The idea was to stop the plague spreading.

Or consider England in the days of the "Hundreds," when the common people were divided into groups and made personally responsible for whatever happened in their district.

If a man were found murdered

WOMAN AT PARTY IS SILENT ON TRAGEDY

Tech Student Sought Who Left House With Vial After Miss Clark Died

Witnesses of the dramatic suicide of Miss Pauline Virginia Clark, who drank poison during a gay revel at her apartment, No. 282 Newbury street, fled to cover today.

Police of several cities seek Otto Haldor Larsen, Tech senior, who vanished immediately after the girl collapsed, taking with him the bottle from which she is supposed to have drank the poison.

Larsen was also sought by college mates and college executives. There is the grave possibility that his sudden disappearance may have wrecked his entire college career just as he was on the point of finishing it. He was due at examinations yesterday and today.

Absence from these examinations would mean dismissal in the case of any but a senior. Being a high classman, Larsen will be given an opportunity to explain his absence, if he returns.

Bayard Wharton, Harvard undergraduate, who attended the death party, disappeared from his room in Gray Hall in the Harvard yard last night and could not be found today.

No trace can be found of Robert Christie, western business man, or Joseph Tory, said to be a Worcester business man, the other two men who were present.

GIRL'S LIPS SEALED.

Miss Anne Cosskie, the only other woman in the party, was found today by the Boston American. Her lips were sealed tightly, however, and although she admitted attending the party she refused to discuss it.

She admitted having been interviewed by Medical Examiner George B. Magrath, and intimated it was at his behest that she maintained silence.

The authorities are particularly anxious to find the poison bottle, said to have been carried off by young Larsen when he dashed madly from the luxurious apartment in search of a physician.

Larsen occupied a room at No. 248 Newbury street, in the same block with the apartment house in which Miss Clark lived. He had roomed there since last September, and up to six weeks ago was known as "a model young man."

He was extremely handsome, tall, blond and smiling. He spoke with a very slight accent. He was accustomed to spend every evening in study, and was never seen in the company of women.

Six weeks ago, however, he became suddenly morose. Then it was noted that he seldom entered the house until the early hours of the morning, and sometimes not at all. The decided change in his manner and his habits was remarked by others in the house, where he was the only student.

ALONE IN PARLOR.

Young Bayard Wharton, son of a prominent Philadelphia family, told his version of the fatal party just before he disappeared last night. This morning his room-mate at Gray Hall had also dropped out of sight.

Wharton's version differed from others in one point. He stated that Miss Clark and Larsen were alone in the parlor when she drank the

TRUSTEES' SUIT IN PONZI CASE THROWN OUT

Sought to Recover Original Investments Paid by "Money Wizard"

The Ponzi trustees, who recently brought suit in Federal Court to recover original investments from Ponzi investors who withdrew their money before the "former wizard of finance" was closed up by the Federal authorities, lost their action today by an opinion handed down by Judge George W. Anderson, who dismissed the trustees' bills with costs to the trustees.

The trustees had brought suit for the recovery of original investments secured by the following defendants: Benjamin W. Brown, Revere, $1,200; Patrick W. Horan, Linwood street, Roxbury, $1,600; Harry W. Crockford, of Winthrop and Winchester, $1,000; H. P. Holbrook, Holliston, $1,000; Thomas J. Powers, Boston, $500; and Frank W. Murphy, Belmont, $600.

The suits, tried at lenth before Judge Anderson, are described in the opinion as intended to test in the U. S. Circuit Court of Appeals questions common to hundreds of similar suits now pending and yet to be filed.

Judge Anderson in his opinion, which embraced 15 pages, said in part:

"By these typical suits the plaintiff trustees seek to recover from the defendants, who paid money to Ponzi and there after demanded and received, as unlawful preferences. The defendants all plead in some legally sufficient form that they were all victims of Ponzi's fraud; that they elected to rescind, and did rescind also that they had no reasonable cause to believe that the receipt of these moneys would effect preferences.

"On this record every note buyer was a victim of fraud. Ponzi was

Insane Patients Cheer as Flames Destroy Sanitarium

Chicago March 18.—(By International News Service.)—Half a hundred insane men and women cheered and danced in glee while a fire they are accused of starting destroyed their grounds at Sunnybrook Farm Sanitarium, forty miles from Chicago.

Dr. C. M. Paden, who conducts the sanitaruim, and attaches believe the fire was set by the inmates with the purpose of escaping. Fire was first discovered in the main building. The inmates were taken to a third building, and in a few minutes fire broke out there. Taken to a third building, the patients had been there but a few minutes when it, too, burst into flames.

Nurses and guards were forced to abandon efforts to put out the fires and give their attention to preventing the escape of the patients.

GANDHI GIVEN 6 YEARS FOR TREASON

Leader of Indian Nationalists Preached Non-Co-operation With British

Calcutta, March 18.—Mohandas K. Gandhi, leader of the Indian Nationalists, was today sentenced to six years for treason.

The arrest and sentence of Gandhi, whose power and personal magnetism have gained for him the title "Mahatma," or wonder worker, were preceded by a long series of civil disobedience activities, which have aroused world-wide notice. For some years he has been considered the most influential public man in India.

Gandhi published his scheme for non-co-operation in September, 1920. In his program were included the resignation of their posts by honorary magistrates, the withdrawal of pupils from government or state schools and colleges, the boycott of the courts, the giving up of their practice by lawyers and the abstention from other activities in co-operation with the British government in India. He was arrested at Ahmedabad.

"Work hard, and tire not," were Gandhi's last words to his followers before being taken away. He exhorted all those who loved India to maintain peace throughout the country.

BANKER'S DAUGHTER ARRESTED

Pleads Guilty to Passing Bogus Checks; Tells of Gay Life in City

Charged with being a suscicious person in connection with the passing of a number of bogus checks, Miss Heincie Golden, twenty-one years old and wearing an angora coat and a $75 pink crush hat, was questioned today by Inspector John McGarr, following her arrest as she was leaving the Copley-Plaza Hotel last evening "for a Harvard dance."

For more than a week Captain A. C. Armstrong of the Bureau of Criminal Investigation has been receiving complaints from local department stores of bad checks passed by an exceedingly handsome young woman, who claimed to be the daughter of a wealthy Springfield banker and real estate man.

The young woman pleaded guilty when arraigned before Judge Bolster in the Municipal District Court, and her case was continued for disposition until March 23. She was released on her own recognizance.

Although Armstrong had put some of his best men on the complaints, no success attended his efforts to run down the source of these checks.

Late yesterday, however, he received information that led to the sending of Inspectors Finn and Flaherty to the Copley Plaza. They arrived just as Miss Golden was leaving to enter a waiting limousine.

Told that she would have to go at once to headquarters she protested:

BREAKS DOWN AND WEEPS.

"But I'm going to a dance with some Harvard men," she said. "Can't you come around in the morning? I'll see you then."

Assured that the morning would not do she shrugged her shoulders and went with the officers without further comment.

When taken before Chief Inspector McGarr today to be questioned, the night in the detention cell seemed to have disturbed her calm, for she broke down and wept.

After she had recovered her self-possession she told McGarr that her father is Joseph Golden of Springfield, a banker, real estate broker and steamship ticket celler, with a residence at No. 34 Grenada street.

This is not the first time she has been in similar trouble, according to the story the police sa yshe told. Her friends were compelled to go to her assistance while she was staying at the Hotel McAlpin, New York City, and make good a number of checks she had passed there.

"You see I needed some money, so I just signed some checks," she is quoted as having told McGarr, "and there was no trouble in passing them. I just smiled at the clerk, you know, and he was very nice."

After settling things in New York

CITIZENS AROUSED BY PACT

being deluged with telegrams and letters against the pact. He complained that friends of the treaty are making it harder to bring about ratification by admitting that the treaty is an alliance. These admissions, he said, are arousing the people against the treaty and are having a damaging effect throughout the country.

Willis called upon all supporters of the treaty to join in denying it is an alliance and in supporting the Brandegee reservation, which declares that the "four-power alliance is not an alliance.

WILLIS UNCONVINCING.

With the help of several dictionaries and books of international law, Willis labored through a long argument intended to meet the charge that the treaty really does form an alliance of the four powers for offensive and defensive purposes.

"The definition the people have in mind for an alliance is that nations have bound themselves to do or not to do a certain specified thing," Willis said. "When supporters of this treaty contend this is an alliance, they put a weapon in the hands of those who seek to prevent the United States from entering into this treaty."

Willis' arguments were effectively answered by the treaty opponents. Watson of Georgia, stating that he was delighted to see signs of disagreement among friends of the treaty, inquired how four parties could sign a partnership without being in an alliance.

"I maintain we have not entered into any partnership," Willis replied.

AMUSES CONFRERES.

"But we have. We have signed an agreement to protect the possessions of Japan and England and France in the Pacific," declared Watson.

Willis also complained that propaganda is being carried on in the United States to defeat the treaty. He was answered by Senator France with the statement that millions have been spent by organizations in sending out literature and hired lecturers "spreading misinformation about the treaty in the effort to have it ratified."

Confronted by Watson with the exact terms of the treaty, which require the four powers to decide upon "measures" to meet an exigency, Willis contended that he did not believe the treaty would bind the United States to do anything except what Congress might choose to do. He reiterated, to the amusement of the Senate, his assertion that designation of the treaty as an alliance by its friends is doing the cause of ratification considerable harm.

HOODWINKED, SAYS JOHNSON.

Senator Johnson spoke briefly in opposition to the pact, in the course of which he declared the American people were swindled and hoodwinked by the Arms Conference when the four-power treaty was drawn. He said the people gave their full support to reduce armament, but that if the four-power treaty had been suggested in advance the storm of indignation from the people would have prevented the administration from calling the conference.

Senator Johnson ridiculed the argument of Senator Lodge that the Anglo-Japanese alliance was a menace to the United States, by pointing out that the alliance was concerned only with possessions in Eastern Asia and India, and nothing whatever to do with maintaining peace in the Pacific.

The power behind the drafting of the four-power treaty was declared to be Elihu Root, by Senator Watson, who charged that Root, by reason of his international banking relations, was the main influence in have the American delegation agree to the four-power treaty as a substitute for the Anglo-Japanese alliance.

WATSON FLAYS ROOT.

In his attack upon Root, Senator Watson said:

"I do not know what irresistible power is behind the Senate. I do not know why every administration measure goes through almost without debate, when these measures are different from what the people expected. You praise the soldier boys, but you kill the bonus bill. You will have to answer for that, too, in my judgment. You praise the soldier boys, as they did their duty, but you are surrendering the victory they won.

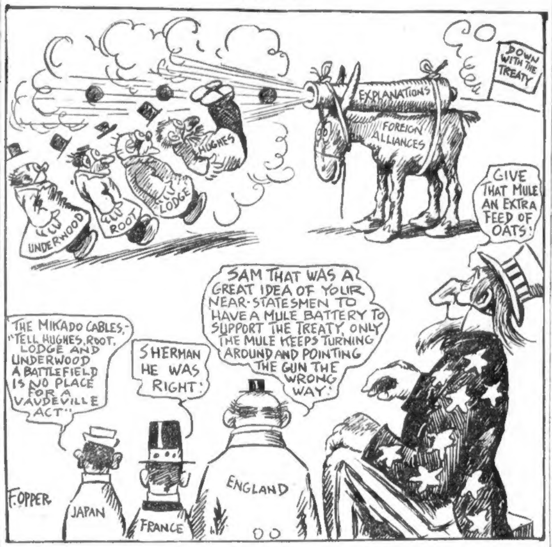

"In my judgment it is the money power that is behind this treaty and Yap treaty. In the Yap treaty we were made to consent to the vast spoliation of Japan and impliedly to that of Great Britain. Now having vested them with those rights we guarantee to them under the four-power pact that they shall hold what they took by the good old plan of force. Senators say this does not bind us to anything. Does any man here or in the country believe that a lawyer like Elihu Root, the attorney for the Anglo-Japanese pact, would surrender that pact unless he was getting for that contract a far better contract?"

In closing his speech Senator Watson said:

"I know the goal toward which this is all tending. The international bankers, the manufacturers, the trusts are looking forward to exploiting these island possessions, and the next thing we may expect of them is the cancellation of the $11,000,000,000 foreign debt, and after they have propagandaed us into this treaty they will propaganda the American people into cancellation of the debt. Isn't Elihu Root attorney for the international bankers and counsel for the Morgans? He wants to have the debt of the United States cancelled so he can get a lien for his gang."

DEAN WASHES ROUGE FROM FLAPPER

Tells Haverhill High Girls Short Skirts and Bobbed Hair Are Taboo

Haverhill, March 18.—Out of a classroom walked Miss Maude Thayer, dean of girls in the Haverhill High School. At her side a poor little decked-out flapper. Straight to the washroom went the poor little flapper.

The door closed, came sounds of running water, gurgles, splashing and then out came Miss Thayer and out came the flapper. And the flapper was chalk-white. Her face had been washed and her rosy complexion ruined.

Ten minutes later 500 shocked girls sat huddled in the assembly hall and heard a thoroughly angry dean lay down the law on future dress for the female of the school.

No more short skirts showing bloomers when steps are mounted.

No more sweaters with low-necked waists.

No more rouge and powder on nose or face.

No more bobbed heads.

And, muttered 500 indignant flappers, "No more joy in life."

Today, a school holiday, indignation meetings were predicted in many Haverhill homes.

"We'll never stand for it," cried the flappers.

But from one kitchen where Ma was shaving the superfluous crust from a fat-bellied apple pie, came a chuckle and:

"Serves you right. I'm tickled to death. Why when I was a girl we wore four petticoats and woolen socks and mittens."

"And always had a cold," snapped the flapperish daughter from the direction of the piano.

TECHNOLOGY BOY GONE AFTER GIRL'S DEATH

poison and collapsed. The other version was that she gayly announced her intention of committing suicide, and gulped down the poison before her horrified guests could prevent her.

There was nothing in Miss Clark's manner or conversation Wednesday night to indicate she was preparing to meet death. Several days previous, however, she had exhibited a bottle to a girl friend, saying it contained poison and she would use it when she was through with life.

BROODED OVER DIVORCE.

Mystery still surrounds the suicide of this "college darling," whose home was a sort of unofficial club for the wealthier students of Harvard and Tech. Several motives may have led to the deed.

She is said to have brooded much over the outcome of her marriage to Lieutenant-Commander William D. Thomas, which culminated in a divorce in September, 1920.

She is known to have been involved in many love affairs, some with business men, some with students, in several of which she received severe heartaches.

Of late her financial condition, for some years in most excellent shape through the acquaintance of "Gold Coasters" from Harvard and the "Miners' Colony" at Tech, is said to have been poor. She worried over money matters.

And then there was the uncanny influence of Otto Haldor Larsen, the Viking-like young Norwegian, senior chemistry student at Tech, who in the past six weeks changed from a "model young man," who spent all his evenings studying in his room, to a silent, morbid young man who turned day into night.

Last are reports that the "toast of Harvard" was in poor health. Significant is the wording of a portion of Medical Examiner Magrath's office statement of his autopsy: "In a post-mortem examination of the body of Miss Clark, made this morning. I discovered conditions which pointed to death by poison." coupled with the fact that the Medical Examiner unofficially stated he was satisfied the case was one of suicide, the wording of this report is interesting.

LED STRANGE CAREER.

The dead girl's career, beginning with her going on the stage at the age of fifteen, is one of those curious medleys of life which characterized the lives of many favorites of college spenders. At one moment she is dancing gaily in a magnificent apartment. The next she is in court, charged with larceny. And through her career runs a continuous succession of men, chiefly the sons of rich and prominent families spending their college days in checks rather than in study.

Apparently her stage life was both brief and unsuccessful. In 1913 she had given it up for that of a cloak model. At that time she was known as Miss Pauline Herrick—probably her correct maiden name, since Dr. Magrath's report states: "The mother of Miss Clark and her only close relative, Mrs. Sarah M. Herrick, is at present in Port Antonio, Jamaica, where she is housekeeper of the Hotel Titchfield."

It was as Pauline Herrick, model, eighteen years old, that she first received public notice in Boston. She was arrested charged with the larceny of lingerie worth $181.60 from a store.

In court it developed she had charged the clothing to the account of a young business man, William Wilcox. She claimed he had authorized her to do so.

When the court proceedings ended in her being fined $50 it was a Harvard student, "Jimmy" Davis, who paid the fine and escorted her to his automobile waiting outside the courthouse. He had previously put up $500 bail for her. Later he admitted he was engaged to marry her.

CALLED "PERFECT VENUS."

The direct outgrowth of the publicity attendant on the court case was the discovery that the girl was a "perfect Venus," with ideal measurements. She occupied a few columns, then faded out of public notice.

Her residence of the next four years does not appear. But in 1917 she turned up living on Glenville avenue, Allston, then the residential section for a number of "college widows," who have since attained mixed notoriety.

She was living with a "Mrs. Herrick," supposedly her mother, and several other girls, and came to the notice of the police through complaints of neighbors that parties consisting of the "mother," her vivacious and charming daughters, and Army and Navy men made sleep impossible.

After being called to the house several times to quell noisy disturbances. "Mrs. Herrick" and her daughters were ejected. And again there is a slight hiatus in her local history.

But it was in that period, possibly on Glenville avenue, that she met Lieutenant-Commander William D. Thomas, U. S. N. He was an Annapolis man, son of a wealthy Florida family. Their courtship was short. Their marriage followed.

The bride took an apartment in Cambridge. The groom went back to duty. On August 4, 1919, Mrs. Thomas sued for divorce, charging cruel and abusive treatment. The naval officer did not contest the suit, and the divorce was granted, becoming absolute September 19, 1920.

In the Fall of last year, now become Miss Pauline Virginia Clark, the girl hired an expensive apartment at No. 232 Bay State road. The interior was redecorated by a firm engaged by Miss Clark, and the furnishings were the marvel of all who saw them. Pictures of Lieutenant-Commander Thomas were conspicuous.

MANY MALE CALLERS.

Shortly after she moved in, a woman supposed to be her mother went to live with her. The mother was young and pretty, and like her supposed daughter received mail under a number of different names.

Men callers came in abundance, among them a young naval officer supposed at the time to be her husband. There were college students in profusion.

Miss Clark dressed in the latest fashion, with an apparently endless wardrobe of costly furs, shoes, hats, and jewels, frequented a Back Bay hotel dining room, known as one of the favorite resorts of rich students.

Her command of students' automobiles seemd supreme, and she appeared with a different "chauffeur" and in a new model car daily.

Her residence on Bay State road ended when, at the climax of a gay revel, she backed an automobile into the exclusive apartment house.

She promptly moved to Suite 16, No. 282 Newbury street, where her gay career reached its final chapter of suicidal tragedy.

BRITAIN ASKS JAPS' AID IN INDIA

Self-Government Association Says England Has Sought Mikado's Help

Washington, March 18.—Great Britain has asked the Japanese government for military aid if the passive revolution movement in India leads to a general uprising, said a statement issued today by the American Commission to promote self government in India.

"Through confidential sources in London and Tokio," said the announcement, "this commission has received word that the request to Japan was based on the provision of the Anglo-Japanese alliance, which provides for Japanese intervention in event of a revolution in India and which remains in force until the four-power treaty, in which the United States and France are allied with Britain and Japan, has been ratified.

"Although no public statement has been made either in Japan or Britain of the British request for assistance in suppressing the expected Indian uprising, the Kokouminto, or People's party, which includes the leading anti-militarists of Japan, is bitterly opposed to extending to Britain the military assistance asked."

Wales' Visit Fails to Allay Unrest in India

London, March 18 (By International News Service)—"The Prince of Wales' visit to India has not had any conciliatory effect on political unrest in that country," said an Indian dispatch to the Star today. The Prince is now en route from India for Japan.

Commenting upon the effect of the British royal heir's mission to India, the Star's dispatch said the total results were as follows:

Bombay—Serious rioting in which there were 400 casualties, including many killed; the property damage was heavy.

Calcutta—Seven hundred and fifty arrests. A civilian guard formed to assist the soldiers in patrolling the streets. Armored cars used by the patrols.

Madras—Serious property damage. Rioters desecrated the British flag. Soldiers charged mobs with fixed bayonets.

Agra—Much opposition to the Prince's visit. Serious rioting, with many casualties.

The Star says the total result of the Prince's visit has been to disclose the grave conditions that exist in India. Indian opinion, it was declared, intimates that demonstrations in favor of the Prince were arranged in advance.

NAMES OF STARS IN BOOK SEIZED IN DRUG RAID

By International News Service.

New York, March 18.—The names, addresses and telephone numbers of actresses and men and women prominent in social circles were found in a leather-covered book, following a raid upon an opium den, it was made known today by Dr. Carleton Simons, special deputy police commissioner.

This announcement came after the police had raided a luxurious apartment on Central Park West.

Samuel Goldberg and others were found in the apartment and Goldberg was locked up on a charge of possessing opium.

The men and women whose names were found in the book will be called upon by the police to explain their business connection with Goldberg and it is intimated sensational developments will follow.

Dr. Simons stated that this was only the first of a series of raids planned. It is believed the list of names will furnish the police with information that will reveal an expose of conditions that may result in wholesale arrests.

Police say the apartment was furnished in Oriental splendor and the most elaborate precautions had been made to prevent discovery.

There were opium smoking layouts on tabourets, convenient to couches, where the smokers could lie at ease. On the walls were great sponges saturated with water which were designed to absorb the pungent opium smoke and prevent it from seeping into the halls.

"Mrs. Farrar was certain from the very first that the defendant was guilty, but I was not so sure about it, so I voted for acquittal until certain points had been cleared up."

Boston American to Give Last-Minute News of Day by Radio

Broadcasting of World Events to New England Readers Marks Epoch to Wireless Telephony

All the worth-while, last-minute news of all the world by wireless every evening to your own home.

Beginning next Monday 35,000 persons scattered throughout New England will be able to sit in a comfortable armchair in the evening and listen to a carefully sifted account of all the notable events which have transpired too late to be included in the evening papers.

This has been made possible through the American Radio & Research Corporation at Medford Hillside, which will broadcast every evening at about 8 o'clock as a part of its regular program an account of the most notable events as collected by the Boston American.

MARKS RADIO EPOCH.

This will be the first time in New England that the broadcasting of world news has been made a regular feature of the program of a radio station. It marks another stride forward in the phenomenal advance which has been made in wireless telephony since its invention. The further growth of the idea seems assured.

Just what does this innovation mean? It means that by the purchase of a surprisingly inexpensive instrument and its installation in your home, you will be able to listen to the latest news just as if someone was telling it to you over an ordinary telephone.

On occasions when big news may be expected at any time during the night or day, such as the result of a national election or a World's Series game, you will be assured of getting the news before it appears on the street. Such news as this will be sent out at any time, night or day, the instant it is received by the Boston American.

DAILY POLICE REPORTS.

Besides the news feature, the Amrad station at Medford Hillside sends out every evening the police reports for the city of Boston, various features and popular music. Noted singers and artists also contribute to the program. On Friday night news and instruction for radio amateurs are sent out.

Coincidentally with the inauguration of the news feature, the Boston American will begin Monday a daily radio column.

This column will contain important and interesting radio news, together with instruction to beginners. Questions concerning the installation and operation, or other details of radio work, will be answered by an expert.

HAS JUST STARTED.

Wireless has just started its most rapid growth. From now on its development will be even more spectacular than it has been in the past.

Steamships and hotels are installing instruments, more and more private homes are being equipped, and some of the wildest dreams of scientists are being realized. Of these advances the Boston American will keep its readers informed through its radio column.

If there is something you want to know about radio telephony, whether it is the installation of an instrument or the application of the new rules of the air, send your question to the Radio Editor, Boston American, No. 80 Summer street, Boston, Mass.

If you have any news that you think other beginners and amateurs would be interested in, send it to the same place.

Here is the program of what will be broadcasted by the Amrad Station at 8 o'clock evenings this week. Tune to 360 meters.

SUNDAY.

Radio church service; Rev. C. C. MacDonald, Pastor of the Union Congregational Church, South Medford, will preach.

CHARGES U. S. KEEPS CASH OUT OF RUSSIA

Moscow, March 18 (By International News Service).—The charge that the American Government is preventing money from being sent into Russia from the United States was made today by Chairman Scheinman of the Russian State Bank. He says the unwillingness of the Washington Government to allow any banking business to be done between the two countries was responsible for the Equitable Trust Company's failure to carry out a contract.

ROXBURY YOUTH HELD ON FORGERY CHARGE

Passing bogus checks on the Commonwealth Trust Company and forging the name of William J. Sullivan, contractor, of No. 99 Southampton sereet, were favorite pastimes of Henry A. Brown, twenty-two, of No. 24 Lansdowne street, Roxbury, the police say. They claim he admitted forging and uttering forty such checks in boarding houses throughout Boston, following his arrest today. He used many aliases. The checks were for small amounts.

LIGHT COMPANIES TO ISSUE CAPITAL STOCK

The Cape & Vineyard Electric Company was today authorized to issue $714,000 of capital stock to take up certificates of indebtedness soon falling due. adjudicated a bankrupt October 25, 1920. It follows that the year allowed under the bankruptcy act for proving claims expired October 25, 1921.

"It is therefore obvious that if the defendants, and others in like plight, are held to pay to the plaintiffs the amounts they put in and took out of the swindling scheme, they cannot hereafter prove their claims and share pro rata with other victims whose claims have already been proved and allowed.

"The effect of the suits therefore, if successful, will be to compel the defendants and other withdrawing victims to pay the full amounts of their original contributions into a fraud, in the distribution of which they cannot share, in order to increase the dividends of those who had not the luck or foresight to withdraw before the crash came. Obviously such a result is most unjust.

"As a practical matter such a set of victims of a scheme of fraud could not be expected to pay back money that they reasonably believed they had rescued from an insolvent swindler. The plaintiffs' theory would, if made effective, greatly increase the inequalities otherwise inevitable among Ponzi's dupes. It would assess the less foolish for the benefit of the more foolish.

"The burden is on the trustees to show that the defendants received unlawful preferences. On all the evidence I find and rule that the defendants were not, when paid, creditors under the meaning of the bankruptcy act."

HARDING STARTS BACK; BENEFITED BY TRIP

St. Augustine, Fla., March 18 (By the Associated Press).—Refreshed by his ten days of relaxation, President Harding brought his vacation trip to a close today when, with the members of his party, he boarded the special train for the return journey to Washington. Secretary and Mrs. Weeks, Brigadier-General Sawyer, the President's physician; Secretary Christian, Attorney-General Daugherty and Under-Secretary of State Fletcher accompanied him. General Sawyer said the President showed great benefit from his trip.

IRISH SOLDIERS IN DUBLIN MUTINY

Fifty Are Pursued and Disarmed by Detachment of Loyal Troops

Dublin, March 18 (By International News Service).—A mutiny broke out in the barracks of the Irish Republican Army today. Fifty mutineers left the barracks with their arms, announcing their intentions of leaving for the South.

They were pursued by a detachment of loyal troops under Captain O'Connell, a former officer in the American army and disarmed.

London, March 18 (By International News Service).—Fighting has again broken out along the Ulster frontier. Fermanach and Monaghan Counties have been isolated from each other by the destruction of the principal bridges, the cutting of telegraph and telephone wires, and the blowing up of railway tracks, said a dispatch from Dublin this afternoon.

Detachments of the Irish republican army are concentrating in Monaghan where they are commandeering houses for use as barracks, said a Dublin despatch.

For some time both armed Republicans and Orangemen have been gathering along the southern border of Ulster. Feeling is running high and a new element of seriousness has been injected by the disbanding of the Liaison Commission.

Field Marshall Sir Henry Wilson, former chief of the British Imperial General Staff, is in command of the Ulster Volunteers.

Three Killed in Belfast Ooutbreak

Belfast, March 18 (By the Associated Press).—Terrorists, who had remained under cover all of St. Patrick's Day, resumed their activities today. Shortly after curfew a news vender proceeding homeward on his bicycle was shot through the breast, and a man was shot and killed in Newtonards road.

A bomb was thrown in Thompson street, the missile wounding several persons.

Two men dashed into Thompson street, in the Sinn Fein district, and threw a bomb through an upstairs window of a small dwelling where an elderly woman, Rose McGreevy, and her niece, Mary Mullan, were sleeping.

Pedestrians who forced an entrance found Mrs. McGreevy seriously wounded and her niece mortally hurt, one of the young woman's legs having been blown nearly off. The two women were taken to a hospital, where Miss Mullan died shortly afterward.

Early this morning the body of a man was found in Claremont lane with a bullet through the head.

Trying To Organize Flying Corps

By Associated Press.

Dublin, March 18.—Commandant General McKeown, popularly known as the "blacksmith of Ballinal" told an audience at Mullingar that an Irish officer was trying to organize a flying corps "to save our people in Belfast."

Here, said General McKeown, was a chance for the people who shouted "down with the treaty and up with the republic," if they wanted to do something and were willing to help their people in the North. Let them, he added, hand in their names for the flying corps.

His auditors cheered loudly when, continuing, General McKeown said: "If necessary, I will lead them in person."

Approval is voiced generally in Dublin over the note which Arthur Griffith, president of the Dail Eireann, sent to the Ministry of Defence in which he forbade the holding of the army convention set for March 26.

The intention has been evident of submitting at the convention of the Irish republican army a resolution proposing the formation of an executive of the army, and the provisional government officials regard this as a deliberate attempt to establish a military government.

Things are not as bad as that, even in Russia. And here, with five millions idle and no one much interested, we at least allow the idle man to hunt a job where he will.

Once, in England, if a man wandered from his parish, seeking work, without permission, they branded him with a red hot iron—they might need him later, he must not wander off. We are savages still, forcing famine and cannibalism on a distressed nation. But we are improved savages.

OUSTED QUINCY HOUSE RAIDER TO TAKE FIGHT TO WASHINGTON

MAY TELL NAMES OF DRINKERS

Was Prohibition Agent William H. McCray of No. 11 Bowers avenue, Somerville, suspended for the part he played in the now famous raid on the Quincy House of December 20 last?

McCray says he was, and that he will take the fight to Washington.

State Prohibition Director Elmer C. Potter says McCray's suspension had nothing to do with the Quincy House raid, but was made on his recommendation.

Supervising Enforcement Agent James P. Roberts says he does not know the reason, but that he had no complaint with McCray's work.

McCray swore out the warrant that enabled Wilson to obtain the warrant used in the Quincy House raid, which occurred during a political dinner given to Governor Channing H. Cox.

"RAID WAS RESPONSIBLE."

McCray was present when the raid took place, and played an active part in it.

"Of course the raid was responsible for my suspension," he told a Boston American representative today. "They said they would get Wilson and me and they have done it. It was stated shortly after the raid that they would get Wilson first and me next. This is the result.

"I saw Director Potter today and got no satisfaction from him. He said I would have to have the matter taken up with Washington today.

"They have nothing on me. I've been clean all the way through. They probably thought I would take the indefinite suspension, which means removal, get another job and say nothing. I don't intend to do anything of the kind. This is not over yet.

HAS "BARROOM LIST."

"Another thing, I have a list of all the men who came out of the barroom at the Quincy House the night of the raid. I did not give that list to Wilson, and still have it in my possession. There are some interesting names on it."

Director Potter, when interviewed, said McCray's suspension was due to his own recommendation. "I made a recommendation to Washington," said Director Potter, "and the suspension followed. I can't say what the charge or charges were. As far as I am concerned, the matter is closed."

"Is McCray going to be given a hearing?" Potter was asked.

"The law does not require it," was the reply. "We are not under civil service rules."

"But if McCray demands a hearing will it be granted him?"

"He had a hearing this morning," said Potter. "He came in and talked with me. I consider that a hearing."

Asked if there were any further suspensions to be made, Potter said there no immediate prospect of any. He added that the local force had been increased by four men.

Supervising Enforcement Agent Roberts stated he did not believe Director Potter would allow himself to be used to "get" McCray be- of the Quincy House raid. "I think Mr. Potter must have had some other reason for recommending the suspension," he said. "Of course it could have been put through over his head, but I don't think that was done.

"I don't know the season myself, and personally have never had any complaint against McCray. Whatever happened must have taken place before I took office. When I became enforcement agent I told my men that I had the right to remove or suspend them, but that I would not exercise it as long as they did good work.

"I made no removals for political or social reasons, when I was satisfied the men were delivering the goods. I did tell them, however, that if there were any removals I would recommend a hearing, although the law does not require it. I think every man should have his day in court."

she said, she came to Boston, and went to the best hotels.

"Of course I wanted to meet the best people here,' 'she explained. "I manager to get in with a nice lot of Harvard boys by saying I was a student at Smith College. The fellows were awfully nice to me. They took me to dances and dinners and auto rides and that sort of thing, you know.

MONEY RAN LOW.

"And then my money began to run out and I had to have clothes, so I—just got 'em."

But she refused to say just how she "got 'em," and when pressed for additional information, asked that Attorney Lewis Goldberg be notified of her arrest and asked to come to see her.

Miss Golden is one of the prettiest girls seen about the police headquarters in months. She is graceful and carries herself with a distinguished air.

Her costume is faultless, the last word in the mode. A light tweed suit was covered with an angora fur coat and stole, her shapely ankles clad in brown silk stockings and a slender foot in fashionable Oxfords. The gem of her costume was the pink hat, which she admitted cost $75 and had not been paid for.

According to the police she has passed checks under the names of "Rita Davis," "Kitty Davis," "Kitty Brown" and "Olga Gleason."

The police refused today to give any intimation of the amount of money involved in her alleged operations.

WOMAN FOUND AFTER ATTACK IDENTIFIED

Mrs. Lilla Mylett of Charlestown Tells Police She Took Drug

The "Little Unknown" dying at City Hospital has been identified as Lilla Mylett, thirty-five years old, of No. 30 Oak street, Charlestown.

She took veronal, she whispered weakly to doctors today, regaining consciousness for a moment.

"Bought it at a drug store," she murmured, her bloodless lips moving pitifully, "but I don't know how I got where you say I was found or how these awful bruises came on my arms."

She was found under a ramshackle wagon in a vacant lot in the South End.

What caused her to seek death the police have not learned.

She has a husband, Robert Mylett, living on Story street, South Boston.

Neither has it been ascertained if she was robbed. No handbag or purse was found when her unconscious form was discovered lying under the wagon.

The girl, who is tiny, was roughly handled. Police believe she was attacked after she had rendered herself half stupid with the drug. Half-conscious, she battled her assailant, was subdued and carried to the lot and thrown under the wagon.

Police do not believe she walked there. And it is believed she carried a handbag and had a purse containing money.

Whether, in the event of her death—doctors say she will hardly recover—it will loom up as a murder, police would not say. They are satisfied an attack was committed and are combing the South End for the assailant.

DIVA REFUSES TO BELIEVE HUSBAND

St. Louis, March 18.—Madame Margarete Matzenauer, prima donna, today told the Associated Press she gave no credence to the statement issued in Del Monte, Cal., by her chauffeur husband, Floyd Glotzbach, that he had no part in the recent publicity incident to their martial affairs.

"Surely the newspapers wouldn't make up the interviews in which he made me the laughing stock of the world," she said.

Commenting on a dispatch from San Francisco that Glotzbach's mother and step-father had sided with the prima donna, the madame said:

"Surely they side with me. They always did. Only about a month ago his mother visited me in my New York apartment, and tried to bring about a reconciliation. But there will be no reconciliation, you can put that down."

San Francisco, March 18.—Mrs. Charles Glotzbach Howland, mother of Floyd Glotzbach, chauffeur husband of Madame Matzenauer, the prima donna, said she had accepted the prima donna as her daughter.

The chauffeur's step-father, Charles Howland, also sided with Madame Matzenauer, stating that "there had been a little tiff which could easily have been fixed up."

WHISTLING BURGLAR OVERLOOKS THOUSANDS

As a burglar he was a good whistler. He entered the luxurious home of Daniel B. H. Powers, wealthy merchant, No. 17 Beacon Hill avenue, Lynn; whistled in answer to a whistle from Mr. Power, who was sick in bed and had arranged a whistle signal with his wife; took twenty cents from Power's clothing, and got away, leaving $13 in the same clothes and thousands in jewelry and silverware. Then he visited the home of Charles E. Weston, No. 29 Beacon Hill avenue, and took $9.

DIAZ KILLED, BUT NOT THE EX-CHIEF'S NEPHEW

San Antonio, Tex., March 18.—According to word received here from Torreon, a General Felix Diaz has been shot and killed by armed guards between Guaymas and Hermosillo while being taken to the latter place on a charge of some crime unknown at Torreon. According to the same information, the man was not related to General Felix Diaz, the nephew of the former Mexican president.

Great Program Is Outlined for Big Bonus Mass Meeting

Prominent Orators Will Address Rally Next Tuesday on Boston Common; Noted Vocalists to Entertain.

A program of exceptional merit has been arranged for the mammoth open-air mass meeting to be held on Boston Common next Tuesday afternoon. The purpose of the meeting is to voice a loud protest against the manner in which Congress is handling the adjusted compensation, or so-called bonus bill.

Arrangements for the meeting are being made by the Boston American. The speaking will be from the Parkman bandstand. The time will be from 1 to 3 o'clock. There will be a band concert and singing by some of the most popular soloists of Greater Boston.

John L. MacDonald, State department commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, will preside. This organization is taking a lively interest in the affair. In every way possible it is co-operating with the Boston American to make it a big success. Commander MacDonald says:

SCORES CONGRESS.

"There cannot be too many meetings of protest against the course which Congress has followed on this bill, call it compensation or bonus, or whatever you like. Its attitudes have not been American attitudes, they have not been attitudes of servants of the people anxious to carry out the wishes of the people.

"We demand action. We demand the immediate passage of the adjusted compensation bill. We demand that the majority of Congress stop their truckling to the orders of the special interests and give sympathetic heed to the needs of the men and women who served America in the World War.

"It is my personal as well as official wish that as many Veterans of Foreign Wars as can do so attend the meeting on the Common next Tuesday afternoon."

Members of the headquarters staff of the Veterans are planning to escort their commander, with the colors, from the State House to the bandstand.

BRICKLEY WILL SPEAK.

At the tremendous protest meeting in Faneuil Hall recently, several thousand were turned away. Never had the historic old building held such a large and enthusiastic crowd. Since then the Boston American has been deluged with requests from those who were disappointed upon that occasion to arrange for a similar gathering.

Mayor Curley and leaders of the American Legion were headliners in Faneuil Hall. The Mayor will not be able to attend the meeting on the Common, as he will be in Washington on Tuesday fighting in company with representatives of Boston's business interests for the removal of the freight differentials which have discriminated in a most hurtful degree against the port of Boston.

But he will leave behind an expression of his hearty sympathy with the battle for the bonus, which will be read at the meeting.

Acting Mayor David J. Brickley will deliver an address. He is one of the real heroes of the war.

LEGION TO PARTICIPATE.

He has been cited and decorated for bravery and distinguished service. Few men in public life are in closer touch with the rank and file of the former service men than he, or better able to bring home to an audience the arguments in favor of economic justice for the jobless soldiers.

As usual the State department of the American Legion will co-operate with the Boston American to make the meeting "go over big." It is the settled policy of the legion to demand of Congress the passage of the five-fold adjusted compensation bill.

This is commonly known as the bonus bill, although the legion insists that it is not a request for a bonus in any sense of the word, but rather an easy and optional way to discharge a just obligation.

The legion does not presume to tell Congress how the money to pay this debt shall be raised. Neither does it concede that the payment of it would in any way disturb the financial stability of the country.

HERBERT TO DEFEND BILL.

The policy of the Veterans of Foreign Wars differs from that of the Legion in that the Veterans not only demand the enactment of the bill, but declare that the money required could best be raised by a sales tax that would not affect the staple necessities of life.

Colonel John F. J. Herbert of Worcester, one of the framers of the adjusted compensation bill, will explain its virtues and emphasize the demand of the American Legion for its speedy passage. He is one of the Legion's finest orators. In the councils of the Legion he has a reputation for sound judgment.

Colonel Herbert will be accompanied to the meeting by a number of leading officials of the Legion. He will serve as the special representative of General Charles H. Cole, department commander. The general's Faneuil Hall speech was one of the hits of the program, but he has designated Colonel Herbert for the Boston Common meeting to show that the Legion is not lacking eloquent defenders of its faith in the righteousness of the adjusted compensation cause.

JUDGE MURRAY MAY ATTEND.

When Judge Michael J. Murray speaks it is a great treat. It is not necessary to refer to the quality of his logic or the beauty of his oratory. It is hoped that he will be one of the speakers next Tuesday. Here is what he says about the possibility:

"I am anxious to be with you and

AIDING VETERANS

Master Kelso H. Sutton, to left at top, and at right, Alice Killeen, soloists who will appear at the big bonus mass meeting on the Common next Tuesday and Judge M. J. Murray who will be one of the orators if the condition of his health permits.

say some things that have a direct bearing on the question of the bonus. I am heart and soul in sympathy with the spirit of the occasion. Unfortunately, I am suffering from the effects of a recent hard cold, and my doctor has told me not to attempt too much with my voice for a while and not to expose myself to conditions that might lay me low again.

"I must obey his orders, but I want to speak at your meeting. So, if the day is not too cold, I will be there and I think that, in ten or fifteen minutes, I can present some facts that will be interesting. I will give the decision to attend the meeting the benefit of the doubt, but if I cannot attend you will know that I am strong for the cause for which the meeting is called."

CONCERT PROGRAM.

Charles F. McCarthy, former Senator and former Mayor of Marlboro, has promised to come to Boston for the Common meeting. In his part of the State he is a popular orator. He will tell how his neighbors feel about the bonus and why they are for it.

Miss Alice Killeen of Dorchester will sing. That is about all that need be said about her number. Her popularity as a pleasing entertainer is too well established.

De Ross McAllister has agreed to render "Dear Old Pal o' Mine." Few Boston artists are in such popular demand as this wonderful tenor soloist. He is glad to make this contribution to the occasion. His next public appearance will be in joint recital with Evelyn Scotney at the Strand Theatre, in Lynn, on the 26th of this month.

Master Kelso H. Sutton, Boston Latin schoolboy, living at No. 90 Worcester street, again will do his bit to add to the success of the bonus cause. His singing at the Faneuil Hall meeting was a revelation to the audience. Master Sutton is a soloist of the choir of the Cathedral Church of St. Paul.

MILLIONS APPROPRIATED TO BUILD HIGHWAYS

Washington, March 18. — An appropriation of $5,000,000 for 1923, $65,000,000 for 1924 and $75,000,000 for 1925 for Federal aid highway construction is contained in a rider to the postoffice appropriation bill, reported out by the Senate postoffice and post roads committee. SPEED OF BONUS BILL DEPENDS ON GILLETT

By Associated Press.

Washington, March 18.—Republican House leaders expect to confer with President Harding at the White House tomorrow night regarding procedure in handling the compromise soldiers' bonus bill. They are hopeful that he will approve their plan for passage of the measure under a suspension of the rules.

Washington, March 18 (By International News Service).—Upon the decision today of Speaker Gillett, following a conference with Republican leaders of the House, depended whether the progress of the soldier bonus bill through the House is to be facilitated or delayed.

Chairman Fordney of the House ways and means committee and Representative Mondell, the Republican leader, want to take up the bill either on Monday, under suspension of rules, or on Tuesday under a special rule, which will prohibit amendments.

The speaker, however, has control of legislation whenever the rules are suspended, and unless he falls in line with Mondell and Fordney, the bill cannot be taken up on Monday.

While the speaker's powers are not so great as to be arbitrary, his approval of the ways and means committee's program is desirable to assist in setting aside the regular order of business.

After Republican leaders confer today they plan to put the bonus tangle up to President Harding as soon as he returns from Florida with the hope of getting his approval of the present bill.

MISSING GIRL AND EX-SUITOR RETURN

Vanished When Romance Was Shattered by Disclosure He Was Married

Miss Miriam Rose Chamberlain, the twenty-year-old Swampscott girl who disappeared soon after she learned that her alleged suitor had a wife and two children, is back at home today.

Frank Bertram, twenty-nine years old, of Lynn, the "man in the case," who also disappeared, is also back with his wife and family.

Miss Chamberlain was with friends in Gloucester. Bertram was in Lawrence looking for work.

Both met in Central square, Lynn, upon their return. They had read announcements of their disappearance in the newspapers. They went to the chief of police at Swampscott and reported.

"Mother dear, my heart is broken, my faith in man is shattered—I am going away," Miss Chamberlain said in a letter to her mother when she left on Thursday. A week before she had learned that Bertram, who, she said, had been her ardent suitor for eight weeks, was married. They met at a skating party. Bertram was a frequent caller at her home and was entertained by the girl's parents until they discovered that he was married.

HUNT ARMY FOE OF SLAIN FILM DIRECTOR

Man Being Brought to Los Angeles Said to Have Made Threats

Los Angeles, March 18.—A man said to have been identified by a Santa Ana rancher as one of two men he heard make threats against a Los Angeles ex-officer of the Canadian expeditionary forces, was being brought here today from Calexico for questioning in connection with the murder of William D. Taylor, film director, according to advices received at police headquarters.

He is understood to have been arrested on the Mexican side of the border and turned over to local officers.

The search for the two men the Santa Ana rancher heard remark they were going to Los Angeles to "get a former officer" took on fresh impetus following receipt of a letter from a British army officer in London, who told police Taylor had once remarked to him there was an army sergeant who would "get him if it took a thousand years."

Concessionnaire With Circus Had Quarrel With Victim Last Season

By Associated Press.

Riverside, N. J., March 18.—Authorities investigating the death of John T. Brunen, circus proprietor, shot dead in his home a week ago yesterday, today apparently were as far from a solution of the slaying as when they began their investigation.

LILLIAN RUSSELL FOR HOLIDAY IN IMMIGRATON

Urges, After Trip Abroad America Close Doors for Five Years

(By International News Service.)

New York, March 18.—Declaring that the American people were being hoodwinked by untrue stories of conditions in Europe Lillian Russel, famous stage beauty who was sent abroad as a special commissioner of investigation said today she would recommend in her report to Secretary of Labor Davis that all immigration to this country be stopped for a period of five years.

Miss Russell, who is in private life the wife of Alexander P. Moore, the Pittsburgh publisher, returned on the Aquitania.

"I have a report that will amaze Secretary Davis" she said. "Our Representatives at Washington have no real conception of the immigration situation.

"America is over-propaganded. Stories of suffering humanity in Europe and oppression all have the dollar sign back of them. I believe they are organizations financed for the sole purpose of making money out of what they call humanity. Many well meaning people are hoodwinked by these parasites, who are trying to bring to this country men and women who do not understand our language.

It seems to me a crime that American boys have to wait until they are 21 before they have a vote when such aliens as I saw abroad can within a period of five years have the privilege our forefather fought for. Our slogan should be America for Americans."

Miss Russell is convinced there should be the most stringent tests before immigrants are permitted in this country.

"It makes my blood boil when I think of what may happen to this country, unless our legislative bodies act on this important question at once," she declared.

Five hours later Vail returned and was placed under arrest. The police say he admitted owning the drug and needles and begged that he be given a "shot" before being locked up. His plea was unavailing.

PRES. ATWOOD IS CHALLENGED BY SOCIALISTS

Clark University Head Ignores Effort to Have Him Meet Prof. Nearing in Debate

Worcester, March 18.—The Socialist party of Massachusetts challenges President Wallace Atwood of Clark to a joint debate on "the merits or demerits of Socialism," in a letter sent the college head. Dr. Atwood will ignore the communication. The Socialists wanted him to meet Professor Scott Nearing, whose radical lecture was stopped by President Atwood at the university.

Meanwhile editors of radical weekly papers of national circulation, are swarming to Clark, intending to give the college episode more publicity.

Dr. Atwood intends to tell the student body why he stopped the Nearing lecture at a meeting Monday noon. A meeting of protest against Dr. Atwood's action called by the faculty members who sympathized with the Liberal Club, under whose auspices the lecture was held, has been indefinitely postponed.

There is talk of a "strike" by the students, but no definite action will be taken until after Dr. Atwood addresses the student body at chapel.

A tactical blunder was the verdict reached by the faculty of Clark University meeting to discuss the action of President Atwood.

No action was taken by the faculty preferring to give President Atwood an opportunity to explain his position. The headmaster is expected to address the students at a mass meeting on Monday.

Stopping of the famous meeting has boosted the Liberal Club membership from 30 to 85 students.

Harvard Liberal Club Commends Clark Men

The Harvard Students' Liberal Club has commended the Clark Students' Liberal Club for its stand in the controversy over Scott Nearing. A message sent to Worcester from Harvard said:

"The members of the Harvard Students' Liberal Club feel that the interruption of open forum meeting at which Scott Nearing spoke, was a challenge to academic freedom. We heartily commend your stand for the right of college students to hear every side of any question, even a social question. Only by keeping the colleges open to every idea, can the students form an intelligent opinion in matters of public concern. We believe that the suppression of the point of view is contrary to the spirit of a liberal education."

The message was signed by Robert Wormser, president of the Harvard Students' Liberal Club, and Norman F. Hinds, manager.

"There are many details which need to be dropped, but there is enough left to give this subject a sane study without prejudice and this is what this committee proposes to do."

The WELL-DRESSED MAN

By ALFRED STEPHEN BRYAN

Let's Be Natural

New York, March 18.—Other days—other ways! "The old order changeth yielding place to new." For many years, a man's waistcoat was so designed and cut that the points at the bottom were peaked and deep and dipped outward to give one an indented waistline. This was deemed athletic, and well-set-up, and a la militaire, and all that sort of thing.

Today the matter of a suppressed and simulated waistline which "ain't" is of no particular consequence in the theme of dress. If you possess one, you're lucky. If you possess none, why pretend to one? Let's be natural, says Fashion.

And so, some of the waistcoats of newer design, as reproduced here, make no attempt to be especially waist-defining, but, on the contrary, are cut blunt or straight at the bottom.

This six-button garment is collarless and has a tolerably high front opening. It is slightly figure-flexed at the sides and the sczes (armholes) are cut away to grant free arm-away and shoulder play.

Why Only One Hat?

Just because a man always wears the same head is no valid excuse for always wearing the same hat. There is nothing that freshens up your appearance, both in your own and others' eyes, so much as changing regularly from the soft hat to the derby and from that to the cloth hat.

It has been often asked, but never answered, why many a man will own half a dozen shirts or a dozen scarfs, but only one hat. We are entrusted with the stuece of habit, that's all.

The cloth hat, as portrayed alongside, has a "just-ran-up-from-the-country" air which hints of the gentleman sportsman.

Such a hat is fashioned of tweeds, homespuns, heather-hued cloths, herringbone design and the like, with a crown and brim of fairish size and a self-pattern band having forked ends. The cloth hat especially befits rainy days, as it does not spot and resists any amount of rough-and-tumble-wear.

OPPOSE HIGHER PAY FOR BROOKLINE OFFICIALS

In a minority report just filed by the Committee of Thirty, the finance committee of the Brookline Selectmen, proposed salary raises for a number of town officials is opposed. These increases are favored in a majority report submitted a few days ago.

The minority members of the committee claim the town is now paying salaries equal those paid by other communities. They also cite the drop in the cost of living and the taxation question as reasons why increases should not be granted at this time.

LEWIS THINKS COAL STRIKE INEVITABLE

Anthracite Mine "Suspend" April 1 Unless New Agreement Is Made

By International News Service.

New York, March 18.—All anthracite coal mines will close on April 1 and 155,000 mine workers will put into effect their promise made at the shamokin convention of a suspension until they have a new agreement with the operators.

This is the view of John L. Lewis, chief of the miners, and of H. D. Warriner, spokesman of the operators.

Mine workers charge that responsibility rests entirely on the heads of the coal companies. President Lewis said today that the subcommittee named to discuss anthracite problems with the operators was ready at yesterday's session to start conferences at once.

Delay came not to the surprise but to the disappointment of the miners when the operators moved for adjournment until next Tuesday. "Delaying tactics" is what the miners say of the operators' program, and such a program, they claim, makes a suspension inevitable.

President Lewis made this statement today:

"We are anxious to work out a new agreement. Unless there is such an agreement by April 1 it is absolutely impossible to avoid a suspension. Ian convinced that there is no way to avert it. Tell the people of the anthracite regions to prepare for a suspension. I will not quess on its duration, but the mines will be in idleness until we have reached an agreement. There is every indication now that discussions will be long drawn out."

RIGA GETS WORD LENINE HAS COLLAPSED

American Brings Story of Soviet Chief's Illness to Latvian Port

Riga, Latvia, March 18 (By International News Service).—Fred Keys, a horsebreeder of Elyria, Ohio, who has just arrived here from Russia, said today he had heard in Moscow that Nicolai Lenine is suffering from a general breakdown which had affected his brain.

Physicians attending Lenine have expressed fear the Soviet chief will not live long, according to Keyes.

Keyes is said to be the last but one American man leaving Russia for home. He believes trade between the United States and Russia is impossible at present, owing to depreciation of Russian money.

"I shall tell you how the peasants were induced to send Lenine not to attend the Genoa economic conference," said Keyes. "Commissars upon returning in the villages explained the risks that would attend Lenine's departure and then would say those were wanting Lenine to go lift their hands—but they had better not."

"Therefore, all were afraid and passed patriotic resolutions demanding that Lenine remain at home."

Earlier in the week the International News Service received a dispatch direct from Moscow, quoting Lenine personally as denying that illness had affected his mind.

The dispatch added, however, that Lenine was being kept in seclusion and that only the very highest of Soviet officials and his wife and sister were admitted to his presence.

HOLD HEARING ON RENT LAWS MONDAY

Legislative Committee to Hear Tenants in Protest Against Grasping Landlords

A public hearing on the antirent-hog laws, many of them passed by the Legislature as the result of the campaign made by the Boston American to protect helpless tenants from unscrupulous landlords, will be held by the Legislative Committee on Judiciary at the State House Monday forenoon.

The Commission on the Necessities of Life recommends that the law which requires a landlord to give a tenant at least thirty days' notice to vacate, either be made permanent or extended to May 1, 1924. Under the old law a tenant could be ejected within forty-eight hours.

ARE MISCONSTRUING LAWS.

The commission recommended that the law which gives a tenant six months in which to find another tenement, provided he is making a diligent search for it, be extended for at least a year.

The commission found that some obdurate landlords were reading into the 25 per cent law a right to increase the rent 25 per cent every year instead of over the complete period of the housing shortage.

It recommended that this law be altered in order to hold down the landlords who would take unfair advantage of the law.

OPPOSE HIGH BONDS.

A recommendation for a law to prohibit lower court judges from compelling protesting tenants to deposit abnormally high bonds when they appealed from eviction proceedings was also made by the commission.

One case is cited of a judge who compelled a tenant to put up a bond of $7,000, although the tenant occupied one-half a house that was worth only $5,000.

"Doc" says he will attempt to prevent the grass from growing on the sidewalks in Alston.

PROTEST CUT IN TROOPS FOR HAWAII

Americans on Islands Fearful Because of Large Jap Population

By WILLIAM HARD,
Staff Correspondent Cosmopolitan News Service (Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service)

Washington, March 18.—Emphatic and urgent protests are reaching Washington from Hawaii regarding the drastic reduction of American troops there.

This reduction as laid down in the new War Department appropriation bill just reported to the House amounts to more than 50 per cent.

The protests from Hawaii, sent by representatives of the principal organization of American business men there, are based on fears felt regarding the great numbers and suspected alien sentiments of the Hawaiian Japanese population.

Latest population statistics of Hawaii show that about half of the inhabitants of the Hawaiian Islands are Japanese. The total population of the islands is about 250,000. The Japanese number about 125,000. Some three-fifths of them were born in Japan and are Japanese subjects.

REMAIN JAPANESE.

The remaining 50,000 having been born in Hawaii on American soil are American citizens under our constitution. They nevertheless, for many natural reasons, remain in many cases thoroughly Japanese in their sentiments.

They go in their childhood to Japanese schools in Hawaii, as well as to American schools. As they grow up, many of them make a trip to Japan to finish their schooling and then return to Hawaii.

In Hawaii they continue to live in the midst of a Japanese group and a Japanese culture, with a strong Japanese national feeling. It is pointed out that the circumstances of Hawaii make this situation inevitable and that the Japanese are not to be blamed for it, but the United States ought never to cease to guard herself fully against the danger which it contains.

In Hawaii there are only 18,000 Americans. The rest of the 250,000 inhabitants are Chinese, native Hawaiians, Portuguese and other non-Americans. It can be hardly expected that the Japanese in Hawaii should get Americanized by the 18,000 Americans who live in this Hawaiian Noah's ark of races.

AMERICANS AMAZED.

Hawaii is not American. Hawaii is an outpost for America. It is an outpost of American commerce, and under the new naval limitation treaty, it is the farthest westward outpost of American defence in the Pacific.

Under the new naval limitation treaty with no further fortifications permitted in the Philippine Islands or in Guam, the military strengthening of Hawaii becomes the next normal natural step in American military policy in the Pacific.

Hawaiian Americans are therefore amazed at this very moment the applications committee of the House of Representatives should propose to diminish the number of American soldiers stationed in Hawaii.

The existing contingent of American troops in Hawaii has numbered about 11,000. Congressman Anthony now proposes to reduce it to not more than 5,000. Protests are coming to Congressmen in a deep and steady flood.

The skirt itself is the background for a chou of mauve chiffon, from which depend chiffon ends and strands of crystal beads. The bodice is supported by ribbon-like strips of the gold cloth that encircle the neck like a flat gold chain. The head-dress repeats the chiffon and crystal bead motif used at the front of the skirt.

TO impress us still more with the importance of lace, Martial et Armand use it in a second formal evening gown, this time in silver, and combined with peacock-blue satin. The bodice is perfectly plain and sleeveless, and uses the straight-across neckline. It blouses over a silver metal girdle from the centre front of which pointed sections of the satin fall. Silver ribbons attached at the back of the shoulders are finished with silver bead tassels.

SHOW STAGED BY GILCHRIST ASSOCIATION

Department Store Employes Observe St. Patrick's Day; Enjoy Vaudeville Program

Two hundred and fifty members of the Gilchrist Association, employes of the Gilchrist Company's department store, celebrated St. Patrick's night with a moving picture and vaudeville entertainment. The affair was held in their club room on the third floor of the Winter street annex.

After business closed for the day the members adjourned to the store's lunch room where supper was served after which they went to club headquarters. The first number on the program was the pictures. This was followed by character dancing by Miss Helen McLaughlin. Miss Dorothea Kirwin gave an exhibition of military dancing. Miss Alice Woods entertained with several selection dances and the Misses Frances and Alice Nagle made a big hit with several of the latest songs and dances.

Albert Munns of East Boston, who claims to be a rival of Houdini, showed the members how easy it was to free himself after being tied and handcuffed.

Miss Marion Brown, "Miss Snappy," was well received with her dancing exhibition and Frank Smith as a black face comedian was one of the hits of the evening. The program ended with several songs by Ben Klayman. Miss M. Elizabeth Morris presided at the piano.

Charles Garrity was chairman of the entertainment committee and he was ably assisted by Miss Emily Smart, Miss Roma Nickerson, Frank Walsh and Jack Smith. Frank A. Harkins was chairman of the publicity committee.

The officers of the association, which is compsed of 1,200 members, are: Edward F. Putnam, president; Frank L. Farnham, first vice-president; Robert H. Heartz, second vice-president; Miss Anne Dorothy McElroy, secretary; James T. Chase treasurer, and Miss Roma Nickerson, general secretary.

THE GETTING-WELL STAGE OF GRIP

Most Dangerous Period---How to Gain Strength.

The long pull in getting over the grip demands that all the organs of the body be kept in their best working form, not only to drive out the poison left by the grip germ, but that the patient shall regain strength as soon as possible to avoid further attacks resulting from the poisons in the system, paralyzing the greater part of the tissues of the body and the organs which they compose.

Forced nutrition is a means toward good health after the grip—as it is a means of preventing the entrance of the grip germ to the system. Father John's Medicine treats grip and builds up the body because it is all pure nourishment and free from opium, morphine, chloroform or other poisonous drugs. Father John's Medicine has had 65 years' success for colds and throat troubles, coughs and sore throats, and as a tonic and body builder.

PARLEY TO END R. I. STRIKE IS PUT OFF

Board to Submit Compromise Proposal at State House in Providence Monday

Providence, March 18.—The State Board of Mediation and Conciliation, which was scheduled to meet at noon today to consider its third proposal for settlement of the Rhode Island textile strike, will not meet until Monday, it was announced at the State House.

The proposal the board is submitting to mill owners and strike leaders is a compromise based on the passage by the lower branch of the Legislature of the Lavander bill, providing for a forty-eight-hour week for women and minors in industry.

Interest in the textile strike situation of Rhode Island shifted today to Boston, where the emergency board of the United Textile Workers was in session discussing strike policy in this State and in New England generally.

In both to Pawtuxet and Blackstone valleys picketing at all plants affected by the strike was unusually light today.

CHELSEA BLAZE DRIVES OUT 2 FAMILIES

Freezing of Hose Stream at $6,000 Fire Holds Up Car Traffic

Fire, starting on the top floor of the three-story brick building, at No. 405 Broadway, Chelsea, today drove two families into the street in night clothing, and did more than $6,000 damage before the firemen could get it under control.

The flames were discovered shooting through the roof of the house, by a passerby who gave the alarm. The house is owned by A. K. Mann, and the lower floor occupied by the Morris Plan, Inc. The upper floors are living apartments for Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Glasky and Louis Gilstein and family.

Broadway between Bellingham square and Fourth street was flooded by the firemen, the water swiftly turning into a sheet of ice, which delayed car traffic.

Chief David A. Hudson of the fire department started an investigation into the cause of the blaze later in the day.

BURNS FATAL TO EXECUTIVE OF A. & P. STORES

Harry Harght Dead Following Fire Caused by Smoking in Bed

Harry Harght, wealthy executive connected with the vast Atlantic & Pacific chain store business, died in the City Hospital today from burns sustained in his room in the Copley Plaza Hotel when he fell asleep with a lighted cigarette in his mouth.

The cigarette fell to the bed, ignited the clothing and only when smoke pouring into the hall attracted a night maid passing through the corridor was Harght rescued. Employes carried him unconscious to another room and called a physician, who hurried him to the hospital. He was so badly burned about the body no hope was held for his recovery.

Harght lived at No. 299 Grove street, Montclair, N. J., and was married. His wife Blanche Harght has been notified of his death.

MEDBURY

Saye a Single Man Is a Better Talker Than a Married One Because He Gets More Practice

Debates are wonderful things. Two people can take a subject they don't know anything about and talk on it for hours.

It's like playing golf, all you need is a big vocabulary.

One guy thought he was smart because he used all the big words in the dictionary. The other guy was smarter, he made up his own.

A dictionary meant nothing to him, he used words whether they were in there or not.

He was brainier than Webster. Webster only spelled his words one or two ways, but this bird spelled them different every time.

He never gave the other guy a chance to talk. The debate sounded more like a monologue.

The other guy had to take his words apart to get them in edgeways.

He had a larger vocabulary but his opponent had a bigger mouth.

He could say six words at once without even biting his tongue.

He could always win by a hair's breath when he ran out of his own.

He talked so fast his palate perspired.

But he didn't care as long as his tongue kept two laps ahead of his chin.

He's the sort of chap who asks you a question and then saves time by answering it for you.

He's so afraid you'll talk out of your turn that he tells you the answer and then asks the question.

Talking is his long suit, but he thinks you haven't got any wardrobe.

He's a good talker because he's single and he's had more chance to practice.

BAGGAGE MAN MAY BE VICTIM OF BANDITS

Found With Fractured Skull Near Tracks in South End

William P. Clifford, forty years old, baggage master on a Boston & Albany train, is dying in the City Hospital of a fractured skull.

His unconscious form was found lying alongside the tracks today by track walkers. It was at the foot of Chandler street, South End.

Whether the man fell from the baggage car when the train lurched or whether he was attacked and beaten by bandits while the train was in motion is not known.

Police were conducting an investigation through railroad officials today to determine if there had been a robbery in the baggage car of the train Clifford was aboard and if he had been pushed from the car.

Mail cars were until recently manned by United States Marines so bold was the sweep of highwaymen all over the country.

Clifford lives at No. 625 Summer avenue, Springfield.

Will little Gloria Caruso inherit her distinguished father's marvelous voice? Musical experts think she will and tell why in tomorrow's Boston Sunday Advertiser.—Advt.

MANY ATTRACTIONS DEMAND ATTENTION NEXT MONDAY

Four important productions descend upon Boston next Monday. Alma Tell comes to the Wilbur in "Main Street," the dramatization of Sinclair Lewis' popular novel, George Sidney will be seen in "Welcome Stranger," the Hebrew rural drama which has been such a hit in New York; Lynn Fontanne, the eccentric comedienne in "Dulcy," another hit, and George White's latest edition of "Scandals," the musical revue, succeeds Fred Stone at the Colonial.

Miss Tell Again Plays a Book Heroine

Playing the heroine of popular novels turned into plays seems to fall naturally to Alma Tell. The young star, who comes here Monday in "Main Street," Sinclair Lewis's enormously popular novel of a year or two ago, played Susan Lennox, when David Graham Phillip's masterpiece was done as a play.

As a play, "Susan Lennox" was impossible, but I remember distinctly that Miss Tell's impersonation of Susan was remarkable for sincerity and skill. It wasn't her fault that the book made such a crude melodrama.

"Main Street" should be different, and they say it is. But again Miss Tell tackles the big problem of creating a part already crystalized by the printed page into the minds of thousands of readers."

When you consider that in a half dozen seasons this young woman has played the leading roles in "The Eyes of Youth," "Susan Lennox," "When We Were Young" and "Main Street," she may be said to have arrived.

Aaron Hoffman Is a Dialect Specialist

The seemingly sudden good fortune of Aaron Hoffman, the author of "Welcome Stranger," which will be presented at the Tremont Theatre next week, is really the result of many years of specializing in the particular style of writing that is so successful in the play. Mr. Hoffman has long been known as one of the cleverest manipulators of Jewish and German dialects. It was the late Cliff Gordon, the "German Politician," who discovered Hoffman in Chicago when the latter was still in his student days. The comedian and the budding author formed a combination which terminated only with Gordon's untimely death.

Since that time Mr. Hoffman has furnished much of the material for stars of vaudeville. This period of his activity covers more than fifteen years. He was born in St. Louis and educated in the public schools of that city until his parents moved to Chicago. There he enjoyed the educational advantages of the University of Chicago and association with the best known figures in the theatrical world. He was barely seventeen when he began to write for the stage.

One of his first clients was Lew Dockstader, whose famous Roosevelt satire was originated by Mr. Hoffman. Among his other clients were Bobby North, Fred Niblo, James Harrigan, Carroll Johnson, Julian Rose, Joe Welsh, Jess Dandy and other scintillant names of the varieties.

Aunt Jemima Is George White Surprise for Boston

Aunt Jemima, the "Georgia coon shouter," is an important member of the cast of George White's "Scandals," which comes to the Colonial Theatre Monday. Aunt Jemima bears a striking resemblance to a well-known poster that decorates the bill boards from one end of the country to the other, only she seems to be several inches larger around the waist than was the colored lady who posed for the picture.

Right here it may be said that the stage Aunt Jemima indignantly denies the rumor that she weighs 260 pounds. She does not weigh anything like as much as that, the scales balance with her at 253, and "Lord knows, that is a great plenty," sighs Aunt Jemima.

Theresa Gardella is Aunt Jemima's real name. She is Italian all the way through, but she has resided practically all her life in New York, where she learned all about the art of impersonating the Southern "Mammy." In fact, she admits that she has never been near the Mason and Dixon line.

Joe Brown Couldn't Stop Being Funny if He Tried

Joe E. Brown, the chief funny man of the "Greenwich Village Follies" this season, is one of those rare beings who have an aura of laughter about them, if you know what I mean. Most comedians earn a living by earnestly and laboriously doing things which are funny. Some get their laughs by grotesque make-up, laughable gestures, curious stunts. When you meet these people off the stage they are invariably disappointing because their comedy is artificial.

Brown is one of the very few who is spontaneously and instantaneously comic. He isn't a bad looking fellow in repose, but he has a large mouth which he operates hilariously. His eyes, his head, his arms, his legs, all operate against your risibilities. He doesn't have to do anything. His appearance alone puts you into a laughing mood. When you add to these natural qualities a keen sense of humor, acrobatic ability of a remarkable character and ability to sing a song or do a dance in an exceptional manner, you have a finished comedian who will brighten up any corner.

I first saw Brown in "Listen Lester," in a comparatively small part. He really was going in "Jim part. He really got going in "Jim wich Village Follies" he is in his element.

Dulcy Example of Rush Job Which Was a Hit

We are so accustomed to think playwrighting slow work that it is interesting to learn that "Dulcy," the very successful comedy which comes to the Hollis Monday, was a rush job.

It seems that Lynn Fontanne was in the cast of "Among Those Present," playing a bright young society woman who was a bit of a nut. The play failed. It occurred to George Tyler that a comedy built around that character might succeed.

He called in two newspaper men, George C. Kaufman and Marc Connelly, explained his idea and asked them to write the play and write it quick, as he had a lot of actors under salary, and no work for them.

The two authors took the job like a newspaper assignment. They started when they got through work at 2 a. m., and stayed up all night, finishing at breakfast. When Tyler got down to work they handed him a 6,000-work sketch of the play. He accepted it. The first act was ready in a week. In six weeks the piece was ready for the public. When you heard a story of this sort, you would be apt to sniff and say, "a rush job, and it looks it." But "Dulcy" is a good play and a hit. How about it?

Thanksgiving Night Tonight for Florence Johns

Florence Johns, who besides being an actress has been an acrobat during the past week, swinging from the clapper of a bell in "The Heart of Maryland," an incident which Dave Belasco stole from Mrs. Leslie Carter from "Curfew Shall Not Ring Tonight," about twenty years ago, is a bright and interesting young woman.

Miss Johns is remembered in this city for her clever performance of the heroic telephone girl in "The Crowded Hour." She has since played a number of important Broadway roles, and she is trying stock for the experience of playing many roles in short space of time, an experience, by the way, which is invaluable to every person with a serious dramatic ambition. Miss Johns will say a special prayer tonight of thanksgiving, for her bell-swinging act ceases with tonight's performance. Next week it's a much less strenuous role in "The Purple Mask."

Georgia Wrote a Letter to the King About a Stove

Georgia O'Ramey, who is one of the headline attractions in Shubert Vaudeville at the Majestic the coming week, has just returned from London, where for the past twelve months she has been a feature of C. B. Cochran's Revue at the Pavilion, "London, Paris and New York," but despite her success, she is more interested in telling the story of how she acquired a gas stove in London.

Miss O'Ramey took an apartment in London, and after fiddling around with an unsatisfactory electric cooking stove which was installed in the kitchen, she decided on the gas stove and made application to the local gas company to install the stove. Six weeks after the application was filed, one of the men from the company came and nonchalantly looked over the kitchen and took necessary measurements. She waited another four weeks, and a second man arrived and went through the same ceremony, telling Miss O'Ramey's Belgian maid that he would be back Friday. To which the maid satirically asked "What week?"

Another month passed and the stove arrived. The explanation was made that the delay was brought about because the stove had to be made in Scotland. It remained in the kitchen for another month, uninstalled, and a splendid place for the O'Ramey household to bark shins on. Another man came and took some more measurements.

In the meantime, Miss O'Ramey interviewed everybody at the gas company to obtain action. Then she went to the London County Council and explained her case—no action. She appealed to the Lord Mayor—no action. As a last recourse, she wrote a letter to the King.

The next day the company installed the stove.

The day after Miss O'Ramey finished her London engagement and sailed back home.

George Arliss on a National Theatre

George Arliss, star of Winthrop Ames's production of William Archer's adventure play, "The Green Goddess," at the Plymouth Theatre, gives as his contribution to the never-ending discussion concerning a national theatre in the United States that it must come about in one of two ways, which seem to have been overlooked by the enthusiasts for such an establishment.

"It must arrive," he says, "I think, in one of two ways—either from a slow and natural growth, resulting from the efforts of some young and strong individual of the actor-manager school, or through the intensive method of holding together a group of actors who should, by their ability and their special organization, attract to themselves a clientele that shall become wider, and with the interest inspired by their earnest effort and their special offerings."

"ON TRIAL" BILLED AT ST. JAMES

"On Trial," which is to play at the St. James Theatre this week, is one of the greatest dramatic triumphs that the age has known. It also met with startling success here in Boston at the Tremont Theatre and has been the most heralded play in many years. Not only is it an excellent play, but it is the most stupendous production that the Boston Stock Company has yet put on.

SOMERVILLE PLAYERS

"Back Pay," a play dealing with the life of a girl with a "crepe-de-chine" soul, who lived in a cotton underwear town, written by Fannie Hurst, the well known author of magazine stories, and produced by A. H. Woods, only recently terminating a successful engagment at the Selwyn Theatre, will appear in the coming week at their Davis Square Theatre. Enid Markey will interpret Hester Bevins, a role totally different from the large number in which Miss Markey has established herself in popular favor with the large clientele of this theatre.

"THE EMPEROR JONES"

Charles S. Gilpin, the famous negro tragedian, comes to the Selwyn Theatre, Monday evening, March 27, at the head of the Provincetown players, in Eugene G. O'Neill's extraordinary drama of the West Indian jungle, "The Emperor Jones." The production is under the management of Adolph Klauber, and is exactly as seen at the Princess Theatre, New York, last season. It has been pronounced by all critics as the dramatic novelty of the age, and Gilpin's acting proclaimed as "superhuman." The locale is an island in the West Indies, of which Gilpin, as the ex-Pullman porter, Brutus Jones, is made emperor through his hypnotic influence over the natives.

FARNUM ON SCREEN AT ORPHEUM

William Farnum, one of the greatest box office attractions of the day, is the popular headline for the coming week at Loew's Orpheum Theatre, where this versatile screen celebrity will appear in his latest photoplay, "A Stage Romance." The picture is an adaptation from a play by Alexander Dumas, and reveals a period of the life of Edmond Kean, the greatest of English actors, when he was at the height of his brilliant though eccentric career. The production is made with careful attention to every detail, and one of the feats used in in the picture which will find popular favor with students of the drama, is a reproduction of the famous Drury Lane Theatre. In one of these scenes Farnum essays several of the classic roles in which he won distinction on the speaking stage. In addition to the screening of this powerful picture the management will offer the usual high-class vaudeville, topped by "Around the Clock," a timely musical comedy extravaganza, presented by a sextet of versatile artists. Other vaudeville includes Du Tiel and Covey, Tuohy and Ashley, knockabout comedians; Three Belimonts, Anthony and Arnold and others.

DR. GRIGGS LECTURE

"The Paradise and the Beatific Vision" will be the subject of the final discourse by Dr. Edward Howard Griggs in Tremont Temple next Saturday morning. In it Dr. Griggs will point out the special features of the portion of the Divine Comedy, which by many is regarded as the most sublime of not only this but of every other poem.

FRED McISAAC says

GEORGE ARLISS in the William Archer exotic melodrama, "The Green Goddess," is still enjoying an enormous popularity at the Plymouth.

MRS LESLIE CARTER and JOHN DREW begin their last week in "The Circle" at the Selwyn. To my mind the best comedy of the year.

"GREENWICH VILLAGE FOLLIES" at the Shubert—a big, artistic, clean and amusing revue.

"MONTE CRISTO" at the Tremont Temple. Fox's big picturization of Dumas' famous novel.

"CONNECTICUT YANKEE" at Globe. One of the best humorous films ever made.

"FOOLISH WIVES" at the Globe. Von Stroheim's colossal film spectacle begins third week at Park.

NEW STATE IS UNDER WAY

Following the auspicious opening of Loew's State Theatre on Massachusetts avenue, now regarded as the most beautiful and pretentious photoplay theatre in New England, announcement is made that the management will offer a program of extraordinary merit for the second week. The bill will comprise two feature photoplays, in addition to a new comedy, short subject and latest pictorial events. The headline photoplay will be the first Boston screenings of "Turn to the Right," presented by John Golden and Marcus Loew. "Turn to the Right" is a story of a small town youth, who unjustly sent to prison, pals up with two crooks. But having served his term he decides to go back to the little home, arriving in time to find that the hard-hearted village skinflint is about to close out a mortgage on the old homestead. With the aid of his two crook pals, a way is found to beat out the old skinflint, and then the two crooks under the homey influence of the aged mother find a new road to life and love. All that delightful mixture of heart throbs and smiles which won such a wonderful tribute from the public in the stage play, has been preserved and intensified in the screen version. In the leading role is Alice Terry, who won her fame in "The Four Horsemen," while playing opposite her is Jack Mulhall. Others in the cast are Harry C. Myers, who is the Yankee in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court"; George Cooper, Edward Connolly and other distinguished screen artists. The companion photoplay will be Florence Vidor in "Woman Wake Up," a dramatic eye opener, in which this splendid artist appears to excellent advantage.

SCANDALS 1921 AT COLONIAL MONDAY

The latest and most popular edition of George White's "Scandals" is to be seen at the Colonial Theatre for three weeks only, commencing Monday evening. This engagement will mark the third consecutive presentation in Boston in a series of revues established by Mr. White in 1919. The newest offering is said to excel in numerous ways any of the young producer's former efforts. Arthur (Bugs) Baer and Mr. White supplied the lines for the incoming "Scandals." The music is by George Gershwin, with lyrics by Arthur Jackson. John Meehan rehearsed the dialogue. The revue is to be given in two acts and twenty-odd scenes. More than 100 entertainers are employed in the cast of the big revue. In addition to Ann Pennington, the long list of favorites will include George White, Lou Holtz, Aunt Jemima, Lester Allen, George LeMaire, Clark and Verdi, Victoria Herbert, Olive Vaughn, George Bickel, James Miller, Sam Ledner, Peggy Smith, Kitty Malvern, Evelyn Conway and many others. The handsomest ensemble of young women that has ever been seen on any stage is one of the features of the unusual entertainment.

"DULCY" AT THE HOLLIS ON MONDAY

"Dulcy," in the person of Lynn Fontanne, will make her bow at the Hollis Street Theatre on Monday night. This young woman has had considerable vogue, which began in the columns of a newspaper before she was transplanted on the stage.

The success of "Dulcy" is said to be complete and unqualified—in writing, in staging, in acting. Its authors are literate journalists, George S. Kaufman and Marc Connelly; its producers are George C. Tyler and Harry H. Frazee; its players, men and women of familiar names and talent.

Dulcy is a chatterbox. Her speech is woven of all the maxims of the Handy Book of Sayings. Her ability to talk herself and everyone about her into a peck of trouble, is unlimited. This dear young woman one learns to love and hate in almost the one breath, takes the reins into her own hands. As fast as her guests arrive, she enmeshes her husband in difficulties until soon she has broken the world's record for blundering. As for Miss Fontanne's portrayal of Dulcy, it is said to be both adult and childlike, wise and wistful, peacock and cooing dove.

HIGH CLASS POLICY AT LOEW'S

Big Orchestra Furnishes Fine Musicale Setting for Paramount Films

Now that the hip hip hurray is over, and Marcus Loew has departed with his caravan of film beauties who stood Boston on its head for three days, we have a chance to settle back and consider the new theatre he has given us. It's a beautiful house, one of the largest in the world, the last word of comfort and convenience. The program of Paramount pictures which will be shown there guarantees the high class quality of the photoplays, while the big orchestra enables a type of musical setting which is familiar to New York and Chicago, but which we have not had a chance to appreciate in Boston up to this time.

Marcus Loew believes that the people will go up to Massachusetts avenue, if he convinces them it is worth their while. That has already been demonstrated by the enormous audiences which assemble at Symphony Hall for musical evenings several times per week.

The addition of Loew's State makes a notable group of entertainment buildings in the vicinity of Massachusetts avenue. In addition to the State, there is the Symphony Hall, Boston Arena, Horticultural Hall, St. James Theatre, Fenway Theatre, Jordan Hall and the Boston Opera House, just a block away is Mechanics Hall and the Strand Theatre. And the total seating capacity of these places of entertainment is nearly 30,000 people. Think it over.

Von Stroheim Moved Eighty Trees

Probably never before in the history of moving pictures has a film been made which entailed such a vast amount of detail as "Foolish Wives," the super-feature produced under the direction of Erich von Stroheim at Universal City, and which is now being shown at the Park Theatre.

In one particular set representing a view of Monte Carlo from the sea, it was necessary to have majestic rows of cypress trees to partly conceal the pretentious structures from the Mediterranean. To complete this scene eighty cypress trees were ordered by von Stroheim to be transplanted from Del Monte to Monterey.

Twenty thousand square feet of lawn were transplanted from the front lawn of the studio to the back ranch for the Monte Carlo set to lend general attractiveness to the scene.

A caravan of 800 people journeyed from the studio to Monterey at one time for the production of some of the most interesting scenes in the whole film. Bridges, terraces, roads and woods were built up to make this gigantic scene true to the original.

Mong Makes Hit Despite His Name

William V. Mong, the motion picture star who is at present adding to the motion picture art by his unusual performance in the character of Caderousse, in the latest William Fox photoplay "Monte Cristo," adapted from Alexander Dumas' romantic story, has again demonstrated his remarkable ability as an actor. Mong's selection for the large and varied number of parts he is called upon to play is in a measure due to his love of acting, for he is entirely independent of the screen for his means of livelihood. Besides being a fine actor he has shown marked success as a scenario writer as well as a director of the screen. He has a large hog farm at Whittier, Cal., which pays him a handsome revenue every year. Mong's striking ability was very ably shown by his work in "Shame," and especially so by his very artistic characterization of the magician in "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court."

By the Mark Twain' Origin of Famous Pen Name

Everybody knows that Mark Twain's real name was Samuel Clemens, but the origin of his famous pen-name is not so generally known. America's greatest humorist, whose comic romance, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," produced as a special film by William Fox, now current at the Globe Theatre, first won a reputation by writing about the people who lived on the Mississippi River, and it was fitting that he should choose a non-de-plume associated with the river. Pilots of the river boats, in taking soundings, used a jargon of their own, which Clemens knew well. One of their most frequent cries, announcing the depth of the water, was "By the mark, twain." "There's a good name," said Clemens. "Mark Twain." And that is the name by which the world knows him.

Edmund Kean Great Actor Revived for Screen

William Farnum's magnetic personality dominates "A Stage Romance," the new Fox photoplay which will be shown at the Orpheum Theatre the entire coming week. We achieved new admiration for Farnum in this production—which is the first he made for Fox after he returned from a long and invigorating vacation in Europe. Farnum is seen as Edmund Kean, probably the greatest actor of all time, whose "genius allied to madness" was proverbial. In this picture he tries to help a wealthy orphan girl who is about to marry a rogue and roue. And such a mess as he gets himself into with Count Koefeld, a diplomat, when the latter finds the Countess' fan in Kean's dressing room at the theatre! But the incident when Kean, while playing Hamlet, denounces from the stage the Prince of Wales, his most intimate friend, as the vilest debauche in England is startling indeed, and conveys the greatest thrill in a truly great picture. The master hand of Herbert Brenon directed the making of this superb photoplay.

BOLM BALLET TO BE SEEN IN HUB

Only Performance Will Be Given at Shubert Theatre March 27

An event of much more than ordinary interest will be the special performance to be given at the Shubert Theatre on Monday afternoon, March 27, of the Adolph Bolm Ballet Intime, with Adolph Bolm himself, assisted by Miles. Ruth Page, premiere danseuse classique; Margit Leeraas, premiere danseuse de character; Messrs. Caird Leslie, Senia, Gluckoff and others, and with Carl Salzedo, conducting the special orchestra.

An outstanding feature of the program to be given here will be Mr. Bolm's unique and spectacular creation, "Krazy Kat," based on the Hermann cartoons, which has been well described as "jazz pantomime."

Other ballet features are listed under the following titles: "Humoresque," "Deception," "A Venetian Youth," "The White Peacock," "Fantasie," "Chinois," "Bal Masque," "Panaderos," "Spanish Dance," "Saltarello," "Pavanne," "Assyrian Dance." In many cases he has chosen for the music to be directed by Carlos Salzedo for his ballets the composition of the younger composers of the day, Howard Brockway, John Alden Carpenter, Charles T. Griffes and Bainbridge Crist.

The executive committee for the Boston performance consists of Mrs. Edward Burlingame Hill, chairman; Richard Ames, Mrs. Chamberlain Chandler, Miss Alison Naughton, Mrs. Daniel de Menocal, Mrs. Pierre Monteux, Richard Newman, Alexander Lang Steinert, Mrs. Alexander Steinert, E. Sohier Welch, Frederick S. Whitwell.

WHERE BOTH RHYME AND REASON FIGURE! Miss Ruth Daze, one of the talented dancers in the Adolph Bolm Ballet, which comes to the Shubert Theatre on Monday afternoon, March 27. Bolm is one of the cleverest male interpretive dancers living.

"SNUFFY" Comes Back! Miss Inez De Verdier, who figures conspicuously in Dave Marion's big show, due at the Gayety Theatre on Monday. Dave has a new flock of hand-picked .handsome chorines

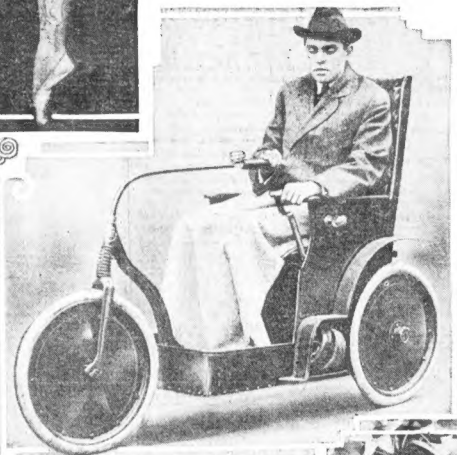

"THE GREEN GODDESS" continues to lure theatre fans to the Plymouth with its mysterious charm. Here is Cyril Knightly, one of the pivotal actors in the George Arliss vehicle.

JAZZING THE MOVIES! The cinemaphone, just invented, enables one to see the latest moving pictures and hear music appropriate to the film in one's own home. Buster Keaton is "listening" to his film.

A PORTRAIT STUDY! Cute Midge Morrison, who comes to the Majestic Theatre Monday with Frederick Santley as part of an excellent bill of Shubert vaudeville. She's just as clever as she is pretty.

TAKING THE AIR! Arthur Van Rensselaer, war invalid, and his electric wheel chair, which enables him to go about the streets of New York unaided. Can be charged at home overnight. Runs 15 miles on one charge. Invented by L. L. Custer, M. I. T. graduate. . Single lever controls two speeds and reverse. (Underwood)

NO SHOESTRING ATTACHED TO THESE! Eastern shoes decorated with bronze and gold straps and a pointed pearl buckle. An advance Spring fashion for those who like something novel. Direct from London.

EDISON MARSHALL of Medford, Ore., O. Henry Memorial prize-winner of $500 for best short story of 1921

IT'S A LUCKY STRIKE THIS CHAP HAS A CAMEL! England is quitting Egypt, which becomes an independent State. Here is a member of the famous Camel Corps and his mount. Both are standing at "attention." (Gilliams.)

MAKING A GOOD HAUL! "Boating by land" proved to be an interesting sport when this 40-foot motorboat was hauled 70 miles on "her maiden trip," from Eastport to Grand Lake Stream, Maine, by this one-ton tractor. Snow-choked roads and rough paths were encountered on the trip, but the little caterpillar "came up smiling." (Milliken Photo.)

A LITTLE HOARSE—but Improving, Thank You! "Mike," a Cincinnati workhorse, suffered an injury to his breathing faculties in his colthood and for years has been using a "false nose." (International.)

SOME MEN ARE GLUTTONS FOR PUNISHMENT! Tommy O'Brien, who claims the lightweight championship of the Orient, attributes much of his success in the squared ring to his wife, who is his helpmate and trainer. Photo shows friend wife caressing his chin with a stiff right. This reminds us of a conductor riding with the motormen on his day off. (Underwood.)

THE FLOWER OF AMERICAN MILLINERY! Paris herself would be proud of this millinery masterpiece, created from genuine flowers and reflecting all the beauty and charm of the natural plant. It is worn by Mrs. James S. Metcalf of New York. The chapeau was one of the features at the International Flower Show, New York. (Underwood.)

BETTY ALDEN'S COMMENT ON BOSTON SOCIETY

Smart Set Members Kept Busy With Charity Affairs

Random Notes of Society Folk in Town and Country

SOCIETY is expected to show considerable interest in the national women's indoor lawn tennis tournament, which opens on Monday at the Chestnut Hill covered courts, under the auspices of the Longwood Cricket Club. Among the prominent members of the smart set listed as entries are Miss Edith Sigourney, Mrs. Frank F. Godfrey, Mrs. Samuel M. Felton, 3d, Mrs. Nathaniel Niles, Mrs. William Endicott, Mrs. A. Lewis Breiner, Miss Marion Morse and Miss Margaret Houghton.

Miss Elizabeth Clark of Cambridge will be one of the bridesmaids at the wedding of Miss Harriett Ranson, daughter of Mrs. Warren A. Ranson of New York, and Dr. Blake Ferguson Donaldson. The ceremony will take place on April 22 in St. Thomas' Church, New York, and will be followed by a reception at the Hotel Plaza.

Eliot Wadsworth of Boston, assistant secretary of the United States treasury, John W. Hallowell, also of Boston, Dr. Thomas G. Ashton and Captain John J. O'Brien of Philadelphia, have taken over Observation Island on Lake Okeechobee, which includes 250 acres, where they will build shooting lodges to occupy next season. Lake Okeechobee is in the southern part of Florida, near Palm Beach.

Mrs. Robert Gould Shaw, 2d, of "Boulder Farm," Newton Centre, has gone for a visit to Newport, where she is stopping at the Muenchinger King. The Shaws have a large estate in Newport, known as "Gull Rock," where they spend their Summers.

Harold S. Vanderbilt, James Hyde and Henry Lippitt left Palm Beach on Thursday morning in a Loening flying machine for Miami, where they stopped for a swim, a game of golf and luncheon, returning again to Palm Beach for dinner.

MRS. STANLEY KING
Mrs. King is one of the young matrons in charge of the four benefit theatre performances in aid of the Women's Trade Union League of Boston.

By BETTY ALDEN.

THERE are all kinds of charity. There is the kind where you simply give, and the old saying—"virtue is its own reward"—furnishes all the thrills. But there are those who believe that the best way to help charity is to play the game of "put and take." You put the money, and take the pleasure.

Which accounts for the fact that the Women's Trade Union League of Boston is giving four theatre benefits at the St. James Theatre in the near future to help carry on its expenses for the coming year. As everyone knows, the League has always had the hearty support of a large number of society women who have done some splendid work for the organization.

Among those who are arranging for the four benefits are such well-known matrons as Mrs. Alice West Movius—who aided so much in the success of the Hindu bazaar held this week—Mrs. Elsa Tudor Leland, Mrs. Stanley King and Mrs. Arthur G. Rotch.

On Monday and Wednesday evenings, March 27 and 29, "The Silent Witness," a play in three acts with a prologue, by Otto Mauerback, will be presented. On April 3 and 5 there is sure to be a large audience to see "The End of the Bridge," the Harvard prize play of Florence Lincoln, Radcliffe, '11, which created such favorable comment when it was produced some years ago at the Copley Theatre.

All tickets for these four performances may be ordered through the office of the League at No. 1624 Little Building. Checks should be made payable to Miss Eleanor Gregg, secretary and treasurer of the League.

"Oh, Mrs. Lyman, can't we let any more people in yet?"—that was the more or less distressed query which came from all sides at the mammoth rummage sale held all day yesterday and going on today at No. 795 Boylston street in the Galvin's old conservatory.

Mrs. George H. Lyman of Commonwealth avenue, you see, has charge of this two-day sale in aid of the temporary memorial children's hospital at Rheims. And what a sale it was, and is—that is, if there is anything left to sell, for when I appeared there the articles were selling like hot cakes and sturdy officers of the law were right on the job keeping back the crowds of people until others had vacated the building.

It was far too crowded—mobbed would be the better word—to count heads, or do anything as specific as all that, but there must have been at least sixty feminine members of the smart set busily selling all manner of articles, from ball gowns to tea cups. And they kept valiantly "right on the job" from 10 in the morning until 6 at night.

At the bric-a-brac counter I saw Mrs. Charles P. Greenough, 2nd, of Brookline, Mrs. Thomas Barbour of Clarendon street, Mrs. James L. Huntington of Marlboro street, Mrs. Francis H. Appleton, Jr., also of Marlboro street, Mrs. Herbert Mason and Mrs. Augustus Neal Rantoul.

The counter at which attractive evening gowns were sold claimed a prominent group as "saleslaides," including Mrs. William Caswell of Beacon street, Mrs. Rodman P. Snelling of Commonwealth avenue, Mrs. Wallace Goodrich of Dartmouth street, Miss Eleanor Winslow, Miss Muriel Saltonstall, Mrs. Louis Bacon, Mrs. De Forest Jaunelson of Commonwealth avenue and Mrs. Bernard Weld of Marlboro street.

The hat table was in charge of Mrs. Leon Farley, who herself worked in the hospital at Rheims. Mrs. Farley had chosen as her helpers to sell the chapeaux at least a dozen women and girls, including Miss Andrea Parker and Mrs. Henry Wilson Harris of Chestnut Hill. The latter looks so much like her sister, Mrs. Edwin S. Webster, that for a moment I thought it must be she until I realized that Mrs. Webster is sojourning in the far-off land of cherry blossoms.

Mrs. Curtis Guild, Mrs. John Lavalle, both of Marlboro street, were selling at the 25-cent table; Mrs. Robert Grant of Bay State road was among those at the book counter, while Elise Robins of Chestnut Hill found ready purchasers for all sorts of bags.

But there were many others there "doing their bit," and a good bit it was, too, for the "saleslaidies" were right royally besieged during the hours of the sale. Mrs. Lyman, in charge of the affair, was here, there and everywhere, helping out wherever she could, as were Mrs. William Bacon of Brookline and Mrs. Henry H. Fay, both members of the committee in charge.

Those who intend to patronize the sale today are advised to come early, unless they want to go away empty handed, for, as we have said before, everything is selling like hot cakes.

YOUNG DODGE SHOVELS COAL IN JAIL

Millionaire Son of Late Auto Man Works as Lawyers Try to Get Him Out

By The Associated Press.

Detroit, March 18.—John Duval Dodge, millionaire, under sentence of five days' imprisonment for violating the speed laws, shoveled coal today in the House of Correction.

Dodge, who possesses a million and a half in his own right, was assigned coal work with others who are serving short term sentences. He took the normal work with good grace.

One of his fellow prisoners, apparently in facetious mood, told him if he preferred to "sit around" all that was necessary was a refusal to work, which would lead to confinement in the prison dungeon.

Meanwhile his attorneys were planning further steps to gain his release.

96,000 MILE MERCER; NEW 5-TON AUTOCAR

MERCER AUTOS STAND TEST OF TIME

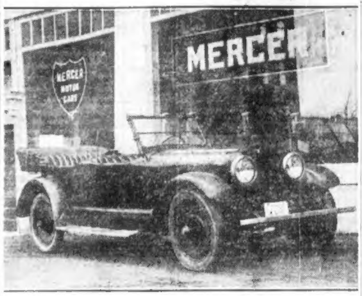

Car Operated Since 1918 Has Covered 96,000 Miles and Is Still Strong

Considerable attention is being drawn to a car running about town carrying a painted notice to the effect that it has attained a mileage of "96,000 miles." The car is owned by Otis S. Phillips, who has used this particular car since 1918. Purchasing the car prior to the close of the war, it has made countless long distance runs, trips being made frequently between Boston and New York, as well as other distant points.

"The car is today running as smoothly as when originally produced, and as Mercer has made no radical changes since that early production, would not cause interest unless its history were made known," says Mr. Phillips. "The original paint is still in good condition, and during this time the motor has not been overhauled. While no record has been kept of the gasoline consumption, under a recent test the car made a slight fraction over sixteen miles to a gallon."

Owning and operating such a car as this, as well as several others of the same make, some more recent and some older, was the predominating factor in causing Mr. Phillips to organize the Phillips-Mercer Company.

In a recent interview Mr. Phillips explained that taking on the Mercer was not merely entering the automobile business and placing on sale the first car offered to him. He was actuated to enter the selling of this car because he felt that after so many years of general manufacturing experience, a car which had proven its value as Mercers had for him, and had safely afforded transportation for his family, would be the one he would conscientiously and without hesitation offer to his closest friends, as well as the public.

NEW DODGE SEDAN IMMENSELY POPULAR

The immense popularity of the new Dodge Brothers custom-built sedan has established a precedent for automobile shows. All during the week the crowd has been so great around the Dodge Brothers exhibit, with the sedan the centre of attraction, that it was found necessary to show two models of the same type, something which has never been done before at an automobile exposition.

Even with this double display at opposite ends of the Henshaw Motor Co.'s exhibit, visitors waited in line for a chance to examine closely the vehicle which has proved a most attractive feature of a 1922 display at Mechanics Building.

TWO NEW SERIES OF PAIGE MODELS

Sharp Reduction in Prices Announced; New Light Six Being Shown

"Performance, beauty and value are the three major points of emphasis stressed by the Paige in presenting its line of passenger cars for 1922," says F. E. Skertop, local manager.

"As in 1921, the Paige line is divided into two classes—models built on the 6-66 chassis and models built on the 6-44 chassis. In each instance, however, a new series is presented, embodying improvements and refinements and new features in appointments and equipment.

"New prices are also announced for all 1922 Paige cars, a sharp reduction having been made on each model, so that on the basis of the readjusted price schedule the emphasis Paige is placing on value has a special significance.

"On the new series 6-66 chassis, Paige offers the new edition of the seven passenger Lakewood touring car, an up to the minute variation of the Larchmont II four-passenger sport model, the latest adaptation of the dashing Daytona speedster, a revised seven-passenger sedan and limousine and that unique enclosed model, considered by many the handsomest of the Paige line, the five-passenger coupe embodying all the improvements that mark all the 1922 models built on the 6-66 chassis."

MR. FIX-IT

Owing to the Automobile Show Mr. Fix-It will appear in next Saturday's AMERICAN

HEAVY SELLING MARKS BIG AUTO SHOW

By C. F. DONNOCKER.

With the close of the automobile show tonight, Boston probably has seen one of the greatest exhibitions of motor cars that has been staged. While the attendance was so great at times it was necessary to close the doors and thousands were turned away, the general verdict of the dealers was that it was a good selling show.

Business is reported from almost all sides, even among cars selling at a price which would seem to preclude actual business being done in so short a time.

It was a great show and the number of sales reported indicates that the Spring business has started and a feeling of optimism pervades automobile row as the show drew to a close.

NEW FRIENDS GAINED BY NASH CARS

Retail Sales at Auto Show Exceed Any Previous Record Made

"There is always vast good resulting from so successful an event as the Automobile Show just ended," says C. P. Rockwell of C. P. Rockwell, Inc., Boston and New England distributors of the Nash motor cars.

"Besides selling more cars at retail than we ever sold before, additional success can be counted in the new friends made and the business that will follow as the result of the splendid co-operation shown by our owners.

"These owners—the older ones—manifested their enthusiasm and good-will by actually bringing prospects to our booth. The manifestation of such good-will was most reassuring to us every day of the show."

THOMAS W. PROCTOR WILL SPEAK ON OPTIMISM

"Why I Am An Optimist" will be the subject of an address in Trinity Church, Newton Centre, next Sunday evening at 7:15, by Thomas W. Proctor, the well known attorney, of the firm of Nason & Proctor. This address was made to the "Villagers," an organization of Newton Centre business men, who were so impressed by it as a tonic for today that a request has been made for its publication. Anthems from the "Crucifixion," by Stainer, and from Haydn's "Creation," will be sung at the morning and evening services.

LOWELL SWINDLERS GET $2,500 FROM VICTIM

Lowell, March 18.—Charles Vincent of New Haven today reported to the Lowell police that he was minus $2,500 as the result of a meeting with two men who induced him to take that amount from a savings bank for the purpose of investing it in a Lowell restaurant. He turned the money over to one of the men, he says, and the man became suddenly ill, and went out to get the air. He has not seen him since.

WESTFIELD CRUSADE AGAINST BOY SMOKERS

Westfield, March 18.—Cigarette smoking among young boys has shown such a marked increase here that the police and school authorities have started a campaign to curb the practice. Many school children of tender years have been found to be cigarette smokers.

CARE USED IN BODIES OF PEERLESS

All Styles Manufactured at Huge Plant in Cleveland

Unusual interest attaches to the numerous details of manufacturing automobile bodies, as practiced in the mammoth works of The Peerless Motor Car Company in Cleveland.

Peerless bodies, both open and enclosed, have always been built complete at the Peerless plant. The wood used for the framework is a carefully selected grade of white ash and is kiln dried in one of the huge kilns which the company maintains on its own premises.

After the wood is properly seasoned, it is cut, shaped, joined and assembled by a corps of expert coach builders who have been in the service of the Peerless organization for a long time.

The painting and finishing of Peerless cars is given the same scientific consideration and particular care which is apparent in the construction of bodies and chassis.

After each painting the body is placed in one of the drying ovens and is subjected to the correct temperature maintained by steam heat and specially designed fans. The complete operation of painting a Peerless car takes twenty-eight days.

HUPMOBILE USERS SELDOM SELL CARS

"Before buying a new car read the used car columns," is the advice given by C. E. Jeffrey of the Jeffrey-Nichols Co., local Hupmobile dealer. "This sounds illogical, but a perusal of those columns will give you some food for thought about new cars.

"I have just been examining Sunday papers from a dozen of the largest cities in the United States. There are not merely columns but pages of used car announcements, and in every single city the story is the same: 'The Hupmobile is conspicuous by its absence.'

"Could there possibly be a better time than the present to apply such a test of value? Used cars were never, perhaps, more numerous, nor so widely advertised by dealers and owners alike.

"But Hupmobiles are not being advertised in anything like the proportion that applies to others—when and where they are advertised, a market awaits them at prices more eloquent than words."

Irish Envoys to Speak

CLINTON IS CONFIDENT HE CAN PUT OVER KAYO IN LEONARD BOUT

By JACK CONWAY

"It only takes one real punch to do it," murmured Johnny Clinton, New England lightweight champion, as he went through the daily routine at his training camp at Diamond Hill, Rhode Island. "One little wallop and I'll have a world's title in my grasp," continued the Eddie Mack entry.

And so it will be, ladies and gentlemen. Jawn Clinton of Boston and New York gets his big opportunity Monday night at the Elks' big charity show at the Boston Arena.

Of course everybody is picking Leonard to win. He's the champion and a real one, too. He's gone up and down the line battling all-comers and would probably be every bit as successful even if opposed by men of the type of Kid Lavigne, Battling Nelson, Ad Wolgast and such.

Leonard is a regular fighter. He can box and punch and do all the other things that are so necessary for a youth who hopes to reach the heights of success.

* * *

But Clinton has a chance.

"Didn't Ritchie Mitchell and Charley White drop Leonard to the canvas?" asks Clinton.

All of which, argues the New England lightweight champion, proves that Leonard has got a soft spot on his jaw. Johnny avers he will keep shooting for this soft spot in the hope that if he can find it that Leonard will flop to the canvas and forget to resume fighting.

Naturally, Clinton's chances of winning are slim, but as the ring game is filled with thrills and surprises a capacity crowd is sure to jam the Arena Monday night to see what's what as it were and also to help the noble cause of the Brother Bills.

Charley (Chick) Miller, South End middleweight, and Soldier Frank of Pawtucket have started training for their eight-round bout which will be staged by the Carlyle A. C. at the Grand Opera House next Wednesday night. When these men met recently they put up one of the most sensational ring contests ever witnessed in this city. It was a free hitting match from start to finish. Neither boxer worries a great deal about scientific boxing. All of which gives the fans plenty to cheer about. This team will be supported by four other eight-round bouts.

Matchmaker Billy Brophy did a wise thing when he changed the meeting night of his organization from Monday to Wednesday so as not to conflict with the Elks' benefit.

The final amateur boxing tournament under the direction of the St. Joseph T. A. S. before the annual tournament for the New England championships will be staged next Wednesday night at Commercial Hall, Bowdoin Square.

On account of the proximity of the New England title bouts, all the boys of the various divisions are expected to send in their entries. This will be the final opportunity of the contestants to get in their final licks before the championship bouts which will be staged March 27.

Competition will be held in five classes next Wednesday night, according to an announcement by Pres. W. H. Cuddy last night. The classes for the tourney will include 112, 118, 128 (novice), 135 and 147 pounds.

Entries for those classes will close with Frank Hannon, No. 95 Cambridge street, Boston, on Tuesday evening.

* * *

With ninety-two clubs now affiliated with the N. E. A. A. A. U. represented in the annual New England amateur boxing championships which will be staged Monday evening, March 27, at Mechanics Building, the tournament this year is expected to exceed anything ever staged by the organization.

Never before has the entry list assumed such vast proportions as the list already received by President W. H. Cuddy. It is probable that it will be essential to start the tourney early on account of the large entry list.

Entries already have been received from the leading amateur organizations of Worcester, New Bedford, Lawrence, Lowell, Lynn, Fall River, Springfield and other cities, which means that the tournament will be the greatest success ever.

* * *

Bouts will be contested in the regular championship classes. There will be eight of them. The classes include 112, 118, 126, 135, 147, 160, 175 and heavyweight. The latter class will include at least a dozen entries, which insures the fans of considerable action.

A number of the leading college boxers of New England have entered the tournament, which adds an intercollegiate tinge to the tournament. There are a number of excellent amateur boxers among the college boys and this will be the first opportunity to see them in action.

Reservations for the tournament can be secured at the new headquarters of the N. E. A. A. A. U., at Room 12, No. 28 School street.

DUNDEE IS VICTORIOUS AGAINST WHITE

New York, March 18.—Johnny Dundee of New York won the decision over Charlie White of Chicago in a slashing fifteen-round bout at Madison Square Garden. Dundee, by virtue of his victory, is expected to have the next chance with Lightweight Champion Benny Leonard.

Both men depended mainly on their lefts throughout the bout.

* * *

The Chicago boy seemed unable to get going at the start. Time and time again he replied feebly to the New Yorker's fusillade of punches.

* * *

Twelve thousand persons saw the battle.

Dundee's margin was slight.

It was the jumping-jack style pitted against a flat-footed stiff punch plan of battle, though White indeed never fought so fast in his life. He was full of action.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS.

Round—White poked a left to the face, and Dundee swung hard right and left to the body. Both landed a left to the face. Charlie blocked a left to the stomach, and then Johnny hooked a hard right to White's face. As Johnny shot another left to the face, they clinched, each landing a left to the face in the getaway. Dundee backed to the ropes and then bounced off and sent in a hard left to White's face.

Dundee was the aggressor in the first two rounds.

Round 10.—White put a light left on the face and Dundee swung a right to the body. Dundee sent a snappy left to Charlie's stomach and White replied with a right to the heart. Charlie nearly fell, but Dundee caught him as he spun around.

Round 11—Both men swung lefts to face and Johnny backed against the ropes. Jonrny went to the centre of the ring and hooked White a hard right to face. They exchanged rights and lefts to the head and once more Dundee backed into the ropes. Charlie then hooked right and left to the face.

Round 12—Dundee put a left to the face and each landed a right to the body. White worked Johnny into a corner and they swapped rights to the face. They clinched, and Dundee in the breakaway landed a hard left to the face.

Round 13—They exchanged rights to the body. White hooked a right and left to the face. White showed signs of wear. Johnny went back to the ropes and hooked White on the nose. They exchanged rights and left to the jaw. The round was about even.

Round 14—Dundee put a left on Charlie's body and dodged the Chicago boy's return. They exchanged lefts to the face. Then White shot a hard right on Dundee's body. Dundee poked a straight left on the mouth. They were sparring alongside the ropes at the bell.

WESTMINSTERS ARE HOCKEY CHAMPIONS

Play Three Overtime Periods to a Scoreless Tie With St. Paul

By CHARLES E. PARKER

Boston's American-Canadian combination of hockey players, the Westminsters, are the national amateur champions. The Westminsters and St. Pauls played to a scoreless tie and yet by virtue of two victories achieved against the Minnesota club at St. Paul, the local team wins the title.

Three overtime periods of ten minutes each, in addition to the three regular periods of fifteen minutes each gave the hockey fans of this city and Greater Boston almost a surfeit of the speedy and spectacular ice pastime, for the final whistle was not sounded until almost midnight.

* * *

The title, according to the rules, goes to the club which wins the most games, and if each wins two games, to that which has the greatest aggregate in goals scored. It is impossible for the St. Paul team to tie in games won, for the standing now is: Westminster 2 games won and one tie, and St. Paul no game won and one tie.

* * *

The same teams will play tonight and hockey fans will be in for a treat with the new champions contending with their strongest rivals for premier honors. The contest will be meaningless in a way, although that will not detract one iota from the attractiveness of the program offered by the Arena management.

The very fact that two such sterling teams played seventy-five minutes of hockey without scoring shows how closely they are matched.

The Westminsters caged the puck five times in the two games played at St. Paul while the Westerners succeeded in scoring only one goal, that in the second game, at home. Therefore the score on goals made is five to one in favor of the Westminsters.

* * *

The championship won by the Westminsters gives them the right and privilege to play the Canadian champions for the world's and international titles. Some of these games will be played at the Arena before the end of the month or early in April.

* * *

Safety first was the motto all the way in the contest, for if the Westminsters could not win they could prevent the Westerners from winning. That was how the battle was fought.

The St. Paul team was the aggressor most of the time although the Waiters did wake up and assume the offensive in the first and third overtime periods.

Irving Small of the Westminsters although crippled, with his left arm hanging limp at his side, assumed the stellar role of the contest. The playing of Goheen of the visitors was also noteworthy.

The same teams will play tonight and as there will be no championship at stake caution and care will be thrown to the wind and all the players of both sextets will hustle.

Nervous and Dizzy, Everything Seemed to Worry Me. How I Got Well

Larwill, Indiana. — "My back was so bad I could not do my washing. I was always tired out and had no ambition. I was nervous and dizzy and everything seemed to worry me and I had awful pains in my right side. I felt badly about four years and could not do my work as it should have been done. I saw Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound advertised so much and it did so many people good that I began to take it myself. I am feeling fine now and everyone tells me they never saw me looking so well. I live on a farm, do all my work, and have three little girls to take care of. I am recommending this medicine to my friends and know it will help them if they use it like I do." — Mrs. Harvey Long, R. R. 3 Box 7, Larwill, Indiana.

Many women keep about their work when it is a great effort. They are always tired out and have no ambition. When you are in this condition give it prompt attention.

Take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, for it is especially adapted to correct such troubles.

FINANCE and BUSINESS

—By B. C. Forbes—

"When J. P. Morgan visits Washington, I suppose few of your leading statesmen would care to be seen walking along Pennsylvania avenue with him," remarked one of the foremost bankers of London, who formerly was a member of the British cabinet.

He was discussing with an American banker why it was that British bankers and business men are so often able to accomplish greater results in world markets than American bankers and business men.

* * *

"With us," he said, "there is and has been for generations the closest and most cordial and intelligent co-operation between our leading banking and business men and our statesmen. Our government, our Parliament, in fact, is very largely composed of men who have achieved success in banking, in manufacturing, in exploiting or in shipping. Here in America it is different.

"Then, the cost of government and the principal seat of banking and commerce are both in the same city with us, whereas your political capital and your financial capital are several hundred miles apart. As a consequence, our statesmen and our business men constantly associate with one another and work together for the upbuilding of the nation's trade. It wouldn't hurt any of our foremost statesmen to be seen walking along the street with any of our best-known financiers; but I understand that it is different at Washington."

Well, the South African upheaval has petered out as recently predicted in this column that it world. The authorities have completely crushed the hot-head who incited the trouble, and it is significant that the South African industrial federation has called off the strike. The after effects are likely to be more salutary than serious.

The flow of some $4,000,000 new gold weekly from South Africa should be resumed without great delay.

The Indian unrest is causing uneasiness in international financial circles. It is a much graver and deeper matter than was the outburst by the least stable element in South Africa.

There is in this country a traction company manager who stands out from all the others because of his unmatched achievements. When Thomas E. Mitten took hold of Philadelphia's traction company it was financially and physically broken down. The powerful financial clique that had brought it to this condition rejoiced greatly when they got Mitten to start rehabilitating the property. He succeeded beyond all expectations. He not only blew the breath of life into the skeleton, but he won the intense loyalty of all the workers and the admiration of the community.

Then the Strotesbury interests wanted again to run the property along the old lines. Mitten objected. The Stotesbury coterie threatened to oust him. Mitten, after finding that amicable methods would not work, defied Stotesbury and all his cohorts, and dared them to drive him to laying before the public all that had been indulged in under their old regime. The fight was conducted fiercely but under cover for a long time.

The climax came this week when Mitten threw five of the old directors off the board and elected five men of his own choosing by the overwhelming vote of 575,000 shares of the 600,000 outstanding.

It is characteristic of Mitten's methods that he caused to be elected as a director a $25 a week employe, a yardman at one of the company's car barns. At one stage of the contest with the old clique the employes came forward and offered Mitten the use of the $1,000,000 and more which they had been able to save through a fund started by Mr. Mitten, and again this week they rallied to his support with the 10,000 shares owned by their co-operative welfare association.

Hereafter profits, after payment of a fair dividend rate, are to be divided between the shareholders and the workers who make the earnings of the profits possible.

Thomas E. Mitten would be worth a million dollars a year as boss manager of New York's traction lines.

Taking an example from Mahomet's well-known experience with the mountain, a group of modern artists have opened an art gallery, for the exhibition and sale of pictures and sculpture, right in the heart of Wall street. Not many people may be disposed to associate beautiful paintings and sculpture with the street called Wall or the bulls and bears who inhabit it. Yet the percentage of men who own high-grade pictures and sculpture is probably greater in the Wall street district than in any other spot on the American map—one reason, perhaps, being that a great many of Wall street's denizens can afford things beautiful and artistic.

But time is valuable to such men. Many of them do not care to stray far from the financial nerve-centre of the metropolis during the business day. And so a body of enterprising painters and sculptors have opened the down town art gallery at 41 Broad street. Every exhibit is of the made-in-America stamp.

During recent years a taste for furnishing private offices luxuriously and artistically has become manifest, in a timid sort of way, throughout the down town section of the city. As one millionaire expressed it:

"I spend more of my working hours right here in this office than I do in any other room. Why should I not make it as pleasing and attractive as I possibly can? There is enough ugliness in the market place. Isn't there room for a little beauty?"

Success to these enterprising artists.

BIG ADVANCES BY THE B. R. T. ISSUES

Common and Certificates Rise Five or More Points; Small Changes the Rule

By W. H. ROSS
Financial Editor

Irregularity characterized price changes of the New York market at the close, gains and losses about balancing. Trading was very active for a week-end session, exceeding half a million shares. The market weakened a little in the second hour under profit taking.

Brooklyn Rapid Transit issues were a strong feature, the common going up 5½ and the certificates 5¾. They were highest at the finish. Fluctuations for the list in general ruled small. Among largest gains were New York Central 2¼ at 86½, Endicott Johnson 2¾ at 83¼ and Tide Water Oil 4½ at 119¾. Issues to recede the most included American Tobacco, off 1¼ at 137, and Remington Typewriter 1½ at 136. Reading had been down a point, but rallied and closed with a fractional loss.

The market had an irregular start with gains predominating. The subsequent trend was downward, although the tendency was slight. Allied Chemical sold at a new record high early in the morning, getting up to 64¾, and New York Central attained its top figure for more than a year. Endicott Johnson sold at its highest since 1920.

The New York bank statement was favorable, surplus increasing $18,758,670 for the week. The 3 per cent call rate held over. Foreign exchange rates advanced, demand sterling being quoted at $4.40¼ late in the forenoon.

TREND INDEFINITE AT THE OPENING

By W. S. COUSINS
Copyright, 1922, by Cosmopolitan News Service.

New York, March 18.—No definite trend was exhibited in the stock market at the opening today. First prices were from ⅛ to ⅜ lower in the oils and industries, while the rails and specialties held their leads to better advantage.

United States Steel lost ⅛ to 95⅝, Midvale was ⅜ higher at 31⅞, and Crucible lost ⅞ at 54½.

Anaconda gained a quarter point for an opening of 52½. American Smelting moved up ⅞ to 54⅞. It soon sold at 52⅞, its high for more than a year.

In the railroad group Atchison was prominent at 97½, up ⅜; Union Pacific sold at 133, and Southern Pacific lost a quarter of a point at 77⅝. St. Paul common advanced to 23¼, Pennsylvania to 37¼, up ⅛, and Reading to 74¾, a slight gain.

Stocks were in good demand and the slight recessions which occurred from time to time were almost immediately followed by a wave of buying orders which brought prices back into line. The copper stocks continued to attract attention and to make fractional advances. New York Central was the most prominent of the railroad stocks.

The steel stocks enjoyed a good turnover, the independents being conspicuous for strength. There was heavy trading in Midvale. It is said that the pool in Studebaker is desirous of engineering a decline in the stock before the next major upward swing takes place. The first quarterly statement will show a new high record both from the standpoint of cars produced and of net earnings.

Boston Market Has a Strong Opening

Strong at the start, the Boston market became irregular this morning and the price movement was mixed at the close. Warren Brothers common was strong and active and sold at a new high for more than a year. It was up 2¾ at its highest. Other issues of this corporation made gains, the second preferred advancing three points. Hood Rubber climbed four to a new high.

Point or more gains were made by Osceola, U. S. Smelting, Atlas Tack and Greenfield Tap. Island Creek advanced a point and lost it all and more. Edison moved up two, but later showed only a fractional gain. Mohawk and United Fruit were down a point each.

Coppers were quiet and failed to develop a definite trend. Rails were very quiet, Boston & Maine receding a large fraction and New Haven gaining a trifle. Packing issues varied little in prices. Carson Hill was an active stock. It lost a little of its Friday gain.

Liberty Bonds Are Active and Higher

NeNw York, March 18.—Liberty issues were active and at best prices of the week during today's short session. Most other domestic bonds and the popular foreign issues held or extended recent gains.

French 7½s and 8s were at new high records for the current movement and Argentine 5s also strengthened.

New York Central Debenture 6s, Chicago and Eastern Illinois 5s, Chesapeake and Ohio convertable 4½s and American Smelting 5s made fractional advances.

Moderate concessions were registered by Reading 4s and American Telephone 6s, and local transactions were irregular.

$30,000,000

Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad Company

6% External Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Due August 15, 1958

(Part of an authorized issue of $40,000,000)

Interest payable February 15 and August 15. Not subject to redemption before February 15, 1932, except for the Sinking Fund as stated below. The entire issue outstanding, but not any part, will be redeemable at 103% and accrued interest, at the option of the Company on February 15, 1932, or on any interest date thereafter. Principal and interest, and premium in case of anticipated redemption, payable in gold coin of the United States, of, or equal to, the present standard of weight and fineness in New York City, at the office of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., or at the office of The National City Bank of New York, without deduction for any French Government taxes or any other French taxes, present or future. Coupon bearer bonds in denominations of $1,000 and $500.

The Bonds are to have the benefit of a Cumulative Sinking Fund calculated as sufficient to redeem the entire issue by August 15, 1958. This Sinking Fund will begin August 15, 1929, and is to operate by purchases of the bonds at or below 100% and interest or by the redemption on August 15, 1929 (and any August 15 thereafter) at 100% and interest of bonds to be drawn by lot.

The Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad Company, which is by far the largest railroad enterprise in France, owns nearly 25% of the French broad gauge lines. The Company has outstanding Debenture Bonds to the amount of Frs. 8,065,800,500 and £5,000,000, none of which carries any special security, nor is any part of the System or its rolling stock mortgaged in any way.

Before the war the Company was so successfully operated that dividends in excess of the 11% on the Common Stock which the French Government guaranteed under the Convention of 1883, were paid out of earnings.

On June 28, 1921, a new Convention between the French Government and the larger railroad companies was entered into, approved by Law, dated October 29, 1921, establishing a "common fund" to which the railroad companies shall turn over any balance of their gross receipts available after providing for all operating expenses, service of their loans, a fixed amount for dividends on their stocks, a variable "operating premium," etc., while, if the gross receipts of a railroad should be insufficient to meet these charges, there will be paid to the railroad out of the common fund any balance required for such purposes.

The Government of the French Republic has undertaken to provide the "common fund" with any sums by which its receipts should fall short of its requirements; provided, however, that if the Minister of Public Works so requires, the railroads will issue bonds for such purposes, the Government of the French Republic guaranteeing the interest, amortization and actual expenses of the service of such bonds until paid.

In case of repurchase of the concession of the Company by the French Government before its termination, said Government has undertaken to indemnify the Company by the payment of annuities which will be sufficient to provide for the service of interest and amortization in respect of the bonds of this loan then outstanding.

The Company covenants, and the bonds will so state, that so long as any of the bonds of this loan are outstanding, it will not be instrumental in, or give its consent to, any change in the aforesaid Convention which would curtail any security, guaranty, benefit or advantage accruing to the Company in respect of the bonds of this loan or through the Company to the holders of the bonds of this loan under aforesaid Convention or aforesaid Law.

The Company further agrees, and the bonds will so state, that so long as any of the bonds of this loan shall be outstanding, it will not create any mortgage, lien or other charge upon any of its properties or revenues, or on any of the rights, benefits or advantages accruing to it under said Convention and said Law, unless such mortgage, lien or charge shall expressly provide that the bonds of this loan outstanding shall, ratably with any other indebtedness which such mortgage, lien or charge may be given to secure, be entitled to the security afforded by, and be secured by such mortgage, lien or charge.

The Company has obtained assurance from the Government of the French Republic that, while any of the bonds of this issue are outstanding, no obstacle will be placed in the way of the Company regarding the purchase and remittance of the necessary funds to enable the Company to fulfil its obligations in respect thereof.

The proceeds of this issue will be utilized for purchases of rolling stock, for the electrification of certain lines and for other improvements.

The present loan and £5,000,000 6% Sterling Bonds of the same type as this Dollar issue quite recently issued in London with marked success at 86% and now selling at 90⅝%, form the only outstanding external long term debt of the Company.

The Company's System in France, comprising about 6,121 miles of road, consists of a main trunk line from Paris to Lyons, the chief industrial center of southern France, and from Lyons to Marseilles, the most important French port on the Mediterranean, with branches and extensions throughout the part of France southeast of Paris, through the French Riviera and to the Swiss and Italian frontiers. In addition, the Company operates 641 miles in Algeria, of which 412 miles are under lease.

The above information is taken from a letter from the President of the Paris-Lyons-Mediterranean Railroad Company, to which reference is made for full information concerning this issue of Bonds. Copies of this letter may be obtained from the undersigned. As the letter has been transmitted by cable, it is subject to correction.

The undersigned will receive subscriptions for the above bonds, subject to allotment, at 83% and accrued interest to date of delivery.

At the offering price the bonds will yield about 7.35% to maturity. In case of earlier redemption of the entire issue at 103%, the yield increases gradually to a maximum of 8.78% if called on February 15, 1932, the earliest date on which the entire issue may be redeemed, and in case of any bonds redeemed at 100% by the sinking fund, to a maximum of 9.22% as to any bonds redeemed on August 15, 1929.

The undersigned reserve the right to close the subscription at any time without notice, to reject any application, to allot a smaller amount than applied for and to make allotments in their uncontrolled discretion.

Payment for bonds alloted is to be made in New York funds, against delivery of temporary certificates, deliverable if, when and as issued and received by the undersigned and subject to the completion of the purchase and to approval of counsel. The temporary certificates will be issued by The National City Bank of New York, who will act as Bond Registrar.

New York, March 17, 1922.

Subscriptions for the above Bonds having been received in excess of the amount offered, the subscription list has been closed and this advertisement appears as a matter of record only.

LOW INTEREST RATES RULE ON EXCHANGE

Drop in Prices Indicates Surplus of Capital; General Business Boom on Way

By C. B. EVANS.

Chicago, Ill., March 18.—Two and a half per cent. is making a great display of herself in New York, in private loan transactions, to be sure, but countenanced by her older sisters, 3 and 3½, on the stock exchange, and we hear of 4½ for three months to ninety days. It is a conspicuous advertisement of the abundance of capital, and one is astonished that the country got over the March 15 hump, interest, tax payments, etc., with so little trouble.

We are now down in the calm waters of low interest rates; that is, low compared with the figures of recent times, and the 8 per cent. of the later years of the war, up to 12.

It is a great change in a short time, and one quakes a little to suspect that it means a lot of capital that nobody wants because the business field holds out no alluring promises.

We cannot yet come to that conclusion, for other evidences point in the opposite direction. The case will make itself out and prudent people will still be prudent, but making their bets on the up side of things.

HARD TO PLACE SURPLUS.

Here in the West we do not move so readily, probably being much deeper in our thinking, or more likely having our capital tied up in slow assets. One does not hear much of any time loans over the counter below 5 per cent., though, unquestionably, some are made at rates at least approximating the 4½ that is quoted in New York. The difference is not great, however, and one may guess at a certain shading of the quoted 4¾ per cent. on commercial paper.

But try as they will, the corporations seem unable to issue enough bonds to take up slack in the money market. Actually, investors and the bond houses have to hunt around through various parts of the world to find places for the money they want to get rid of. The cure will come when the corporations must get help in buying raw materials for their increased production and when the railroads go to their banks or to the people for large sums to buy equipment.

But as things now look, there will be no great movement of that sort until two or three great interests have adapted themselves more closely to the needs of the public and have thus been able to dispose of goods more freely. Conspicuous in this category is the cotton fabric industry, which is in a decidedly unsatisfactory position, and the steel interest, which, though moving slowly forward, has not yet reached a development suggesting things broad and big.

LOWER RANGE OF WAGES.

To reach a strong commercial position, both of these interests must probably secure a lower range of wages, and as preliminary to that the quarrel with the coal miners must be settled, and that, too, in a way which will lessen the cost of production.

The changes are matters of considerable importance and we must all, therefore, temper our expectations as to revival in business. It is coming, has come in a timid way, but the events of the past seven years have produced effects which cannot be remedied by a turn of the financial hand.

When last year there was such a dumping of quarterlies out of the dividend list, a rather general feeling grew up that so big a job must have been a complete job. But we find that young 1922 cannot refrain from indulging in the sport, and this week we have some cancellations of dividends that are causing further annoyance.

Then huge amounts have disappeared from surpluses, and corporations that heretofore have seemed impregnable to misfortune are now objects of anxiety.

SEE BIG BUSINESS BOOM.

The quiet reception of these things by the markets is one of the most interesting phenomena of the times. A corporation passes or reduces its dividend and its stock winces a little, then actually moves up in a day or two. It is not because human memory has been shortened. It is because a well-grounded expectation of better things has taken the place of the former mental desperation.

We shall all make a lot of mistakes in acting on this expectation, but in the main, it is a good guide, and after a few more bumps we shall be congratulating ourselves on a distinctly better situation, a temper of business like that of ordinary times, and a volume greater than has ever been experienced thus far.

TITLES TEST IN ITS "SECOND QUARTER"

Competition for $5,000 in Awards May Be Entered by Any Reader

It would be interesting to know the time record of every participant in the Boston American's $5,000 Famous Titles Test on today's picture.

Within how short a space of time will any contestant find today's title? How much longer will it take the most deliberate contestant? And which—if either—will have it right?

Ordinarily, the average contestant will find a decision upon the Correct Title the work of only a minute or two. On other occasions the problem will occupy a considerable part of your leisure for one day. Even then you may not be perfectly satisfied with your selection.

This is one of the things that make the test interesting; one of the things that give zest to that waiting period at the close of the competition when the drawings are reprinted at the rate of one or two a day with their Correct Titles below them.

EXAMINE THE LIST.

When it is not quite apparent that one title in the List of Titles fits the day's picture better than any other title in the list it will be advisable to examine the List of Titles with great and particular care.

The Famous Titles Test will continue for a total of 60 days and today is entering upon its "second quarter." At the close of the competition each contestant will send in a full set of 60 answers and the Boston American will pay the following awards in cash to those with the highest scores:

First Award	$1,000
Second Award	750
Third Award	500
Fourth Award	400
Fifth Award	300
Sixth Award	200
Seventh Award	150
Eighth Award	100
Ninth Award	50
100 Awards of $10 Each	1,000
110 Awards of $5 Each	550
Total	$5,000

NOT AVAILABLE NOW.

If you have entered the Test within the past few days please do not ask for Back Pictures for at least another week. They are not available. Notice will be given here when they are ready to send out. Any reader of the Boston American residing in New England or Canada may join the Test at any time without enrolment or registration.

In the Book Title Test, recently concluded, the highest score achieved by any participant was 55 Correct Titles. The lowest prize-winning score was 51, from which figures it may de deduced that the number of really perplexing problems probably was not more than eight.

With each Test Drawing there is printed a List of Titles such as you see on this page today. The Correct Title is always to be found in the List of Titles. That list, from time to time, may contain two or more titles which appear to fit the picture. There is always one title in the list which fits best of all. That title is the Correct Title.

It does not matter where you live, in city or in village, in Vermont or in Massachusetts, on Main street or on an R. F. D. route, the top award of $1,000 will be yours if your set of answers contains more Correct Titles than are found in any other set. The Book Test awards went to Cambridge, Medford, Roxbury, Somerville, Rowley, South Boston, Amesbury and Brookline. The Famous Titles Test awards will go to the communities from which come the tallest scores.

Readers who participated in the recent Membership Competition are advised that no reliable information about that contest will be available until the Famous Titles Test sets of answers are sent in at the close of the present entertainment. Until that time, as has been said before, the lists of names sent in some time ago ARE lists of names and nothing but names. Not until the Title Test is ended and we learn how many of those named in the Membership lists have sent in sets of answers will the membership rolls have any value whatever.

Rules of the Titles Test

The Boston American Famous Titles Test is a test of skill and judgement open to all readers of the Boston American, irrespective of age, living in any city or town in New England or Canada.

Two hundred and nineteen cash awards will be given by this newspaper to its readers who submit the largest percentage of correct titles to the sixty pictures to be published one each day for sixty days consecutively (Sundays excepted) in the Boston American.

All employes of the Boston American and their families are absolutely barred from participating in the awards.

The test will consist of sixty pictures, each representing a famous title, to be printed, one each day, in the Boston American, the first picture on Wednesday, March 1, 1922.

Participating in any other contest which has been run, which is now running or which may be run by the Boston American will not debar anyone from entering this test.

Every participant or any or all members of a family will be allowed to submit one set of pictures but each set must contain only ONE TITLE to each picture, and no participant shall be entitled to more than one award and not more than one award shall be given in any one family.

Each and every title must be written or printed on the coupon furnished by the Boston American; or on a page of some book form of itself, accompanied by the picture furnished by the Boston American, or a pen or pencil copy thereof, and must have the name, residence, etc., of the participant on each title blank.

Do not send your titles in "list" form, that is, do not write titles under one another on a piece of paper.

In case there are no complete sets of correct titles, awards will be given to the person submitting the nearest correct solutions, giving weight to skill and judgment.

In case of a tie awards will be made on the basis of neatness, judgment and exact accuracy, but if the tie cannot be decided in that way the tied participants will receive similar awards.

Under no circumstances should participants send in their titles before the end of the Test, as any sent in before the last picture is printed will not be considered. KEEP your titles from day to day and at the end of the Test arrange them in numerical order and then send them in all together at one time.

Time will not be a factor in making the awards. The first titles sent in after the Test closes will stand no better than the last submitted.

All titles must be delivered to the Boston American title headquarters, at No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., within the specified time limit which will be announced later.

All envelopes or packages containing titles must be legibly addressed as follows: "Famous Titles Test Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass., P. O. The Boston American reserves the right to refuse to consider any sets of titles not fully prepaid.

There will be no title or answer book to buy. Lists of Famous Titles will be printed in the Boston American. The list appearing will contain, among others, the correct title.

Participants who desire further information should address their inquiries to the Famous Titles Editor, No. 80 Summer street, Boston 8, Mass. Questions will be answered as far as possible through the columns of the Boston American. If participants desire personal replies they should enclose stamped and self-addressed envelopes.

Ponselle's real name is Rosa Ponzilla.

Anna Case.

There is much interest in the coming appearance in Boston of Anna Case, the highly talented young American soprano, of such enviable fame in other cities. GAYETY THEATRE

With a production of unusual magnificence, wonderful scenic effects, marvelous costumes, bewildering and whistly musical numbers, a book replete with excruciatingly funny situations, Dave Marion's own company comes to the Gayety Theatre next week with a new fantistical revue in two acts and fourteen stupendous scenes entitled "The Land of Impossible."

ARLINGTON THEATRE

Next week's play at the Arlington Theatre will be "The Purple Mask," a story of the early days of the French Republic in which Leo Ditrichstein made a great hit two seasons ago. This play, which is a romantic melodrama of the sensational type, ran more than 300 nights when first produced in London and in this country too, it has enjoyed great favor.

TREMONT TEMPLE

"Monte Cristo," a William Fox production, based upon the romantic story by Alexander Dumas, begins the second week of its engagement at the Tremont Temple on Monday next. Dumas certainly did not have the cinema in mind when he wrote "The Count of Monte Cristo." Nevertheless, the cinema never had better material with which to work than this tremendously dramatic story filled with historic background and pictorial possibilities.

NEW COMEDY COMING TO TREMONT

"Welcome Stranger" Contains Plot of Deep Human Interest to Playgoers

When a play contains not only a deep human interest in its principal story, but also a wealth of uproariously funny comedy, it is easy to account for its success. Such is the case with "Welcome Stranger," which is announced for next week's attraction at the Tremont Theatre.

When constructing his story, Aaron Hoffman, the author of the play, selected for his central character an humble merchant who wanders into a small New England town one bitterly cold New Year's Eve only to find the principal citizens of the place far more frigid than the weather. The cruel treatment he receives makes him feel more kindly toward others in misfortune and he befriends a young girl who is fleeing from persecution in her native town. He also takes up the cause of an aged inventor, whose schemes have become the butt of the town jokers.

"BIT O' BROADWAY" TOPS WALDRON BILL

A rare program is announced for the big three-in-one continuous performance this week at Waldron's Casino. Burlesque, vaudeville and motion pictures of great attractiveness are included on the bill. The big burlesque show is "Bits O' Broadway," and the photoplay feature is "Cheated Hearts," starring Herbert Rawlinson in a fascinating tale of desert love. The vaudeville acts represent the most novel specialties of the season.

KEITH'S

A distinct novelty will be presented at B. F. Keith's next week, when five old-time favorites of the footlights will be seen together in a repertoire of the songs, dances and drama which made them famous. "Stars of Yesterday" is the official title of the act in which Barney Fagan, Joe Sullivan, Tony Williams, Lizzie Wilson and the original Corinne will be seen and heard.

SHUBERT VAUDEVILLE

Full of vim and "pep," Alice Lloyd has returned to America for a season in Shubert Vaudeville and will head the very attractive bill at the Majestic Theatre the coming week. Another admirable headline feature will be Frederick Santley, late feature of "Royal Vagabond."

Still another headliner will be America's popular character comedienne, Miss Georgia O'Ramey and her company in a comedy playlet, "Susie from Sioux City," by Fred Jackson with a cast of five people.

GORDON'S CENTRAL SQ.

Mark Twain's masterpiece, "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," has been made into a motion picture by William Fox, on a scale worthy of the subject. It will open an engagement at Gordon's Central Square Theatre on Monday for the entire week at popular prices.

Why the Soldiers' Bonus Should Be Paid

No. 2: It Is the Custom of the Nation. It Has Been Well Earned

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

In his article "Why This Congress Should Promptly Pass the Soldiers' Bonus," W. R. Hearst gives the following as the second of six reasons for passing the bonus:

SECOND, because it is the established principle of this country to give soldiers bonuses.

After the Civil War bonuses were given to the soldiers, and even some of the congressional opponents of the bonus, like Senator Knute Nelson of Minnesota and Senator Francis E. Warren of Wyoming, received their bonuses after the Civil War without protest.

Even so distinguished a soldier and patriot as General George Washington received a large bonus of public lands for his services during the Revolutionary War, and did not hesitate to accept it.

W. R. HEARST.

You hear it said that the ex-service man should be "above accepting pay for his services in the war." You didn't notice that any of the profiteers or stay-at-homes were "above" accepting whatever they could get in the way of big profits or higher wages.

While others were getting from ten dollars to a thousand dollars a day and more, in the war, the soldiers were getting one dollar a day, also getting gassed and risking their lives.

And now they are told that they ought to be "above" accepting pay for their service.

George Washington was the richest man in the United States. And if he was not "above" accepting a large bonus for his services certainly the ex-service man who lost his job, and his chance, has every right to accept and to DEMAND the bonus as Mr. Hearst points out in this "second reason."

Old England Has Worries

But She Also Has Statesmen—That Helps

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

For the British Empire, life is just one problem after another. There is the Irish problem, partly solved. There is the Egyptian problem, partly solved. There is the gigantic three-hundred-thousand-man-power Indian problem yet to be solved.

And India makes it worse by telling England she must recognize the Turkish government more kindly, restore to the Sultan all his powers. The reason offered is that many Mohammedans are in India, they are fighters, know what they want, and they want the Turkish Sultan, their religious head, to have what he wants.

The British head of the Indian government resigns as Gandhi, the Indian leader, is arrested, which may mean real revolution. In the north we fight to avenge our own wrongs. In India they are more apt to fight for some leader or religious principle.

The one big Indian revolution was due to the fact that soldiers were compelled to bite cartridges smeared with pig fat, which is contrary to their religion.

No wonder Lloyd George needs a vacation.

Responsibility for Russia

Who Is to Blame for Her Condition Today?

Copyright, 1922, Star Company

Our government, refusing the invitation to Genoa, expresses dislike of the fact that Russia has been invited. We tell official Europe that conditions in Russia can't be improved "until adequate action on the part of those chiefly responsible for Russia's economic disorder."

One of those most distinctly responsible is the Czar, and it is too late for him to take action. The others chiefly responsible are those that brought on the war, that murdered millions of Russians sent to the battlefields with no weapons, and that starved and killed by disease millions of others.

The Bolsheviks may have done their share, although they at least TRIED to do something for the Russian people, a total novelty in Russia. But the Bolshevik's share in the Russian collapse is a comparatively small share.

You might as well blame Debs for the troubles of New York's stock market as blame Lenin for the troubles of the Russian people.

Make Our Own Furniture

Why Should New England Pay High Freight Rates, Which Keep the Prices Up?

When is New England going to begin to manufacture its own furniture?

With more than 6,000,000 people living in these States not more than one-tenth of the furniture in use is made here. On the other nine-tenths New England pays a huge tribute to the railroads for transportation. For years this has been going on, and furniture prices stay up.

President M. J. Sullivan, of the Home Furnishers' Association of Massachusetts, realizes the fact that New England is behind, and has said so. He is progressive. He wants New England to come into its own.

The opportunity is here. At the town of Gardner, great chair manufacturing centre, Massachusetts manufacturers have shown their ability in the furniture line. Why not branch out and add another great industry to the credit of New England?

Probe Closing of Banks

Former Congressman McNary has proposed to the Legislature the appointment of a committee to investigate the circumstances surrounding the closing of the banks in Boston.

There has been so much confusion, so much alibiing, so much crimination and recrimination concerning the cause of the closing of these banks that the Boston American believes the investigation ought to be had, so that the facts can be ascertained once for all.

We know in advance what the result of such an investigation will be. But thousands of the people do not.

Too Much Political Power for the Judges

Where Is the American Spirit in the State House of Representatives When It Proposes to Give Them Right to Remove Mayors?

Where is the American spirit in the Massachusetts House of Representatives when it proposes to give to judges not elected, but appointed for life and responsible to no one but themselves, the greatest political power that has ever been exercised even by an executive officer—that to remove the Mayors of our cities when in their sweet will they do not think them fit for an office to which their fellow citizens have chosen them?

A House which by 120 to 38 will take away from the people of Massachusetts the right to choose their own executives and keep them as long as they want a legislative body which has forgotten its own prerogatives, has forgotten the principle, more ancient that even America, concerning the separation of powers which confine judges to judicial and not political function. The majority of the House which passed this ridiculous and un-American bill has forgotten American principles of government, has actually forgotten who it is that governs this country, whose judgment it is that is supposed to be final, and who is supposed to decide the fitness of men for political duty.

The only excuse in the world for anything like such a bill is the excuse that after a man with good reputation has been elected Mayor he may turn out to be a rascal whom it is highly desirable to remove at once, but whose term of office runs for a considerable period.

We have gone along in this State for one hundred and fifty years without needing any provision to remove Mayors in the middle of their terms and certainly even with this excuse the need for immediate removal would not justify giving such huge political power to judges who are not elected and who hold office for life without the slightest responsibility to any one.

But even if there were an excuse for providing for the immediate removal of a Mayor before his term of office had expired there is an established and democratic and American way of doing this very thing without violating fundamental principles and recklessly increasing the already dangerous political power of the courts. That way is to provide that a Mayor may be removed by recall, a vote to be taken on the petition of a certain number of citizens. This is the method in nearly all our Western and more progressive States.

The scheme as suggested by the man who introduced the bill giving the Governor and Council the right to remove Mayors was bad enough, for it was a gross breach of the principle of Home Rule, but the Governor and Council are elected and hold office for short terms and must constantly come before the people with account of their stewardship. They are therefore responsible to the people and, bad as the scheme was, it conformed infinitely better to the principles of our democracy than the scheme the House has adopted of taking away from the citizens the right to control their chief executives, and giving it to politically irresponsible judges.

This bill will not become a law until the people have passed on it by a referendum.

Undignified and Impudent

Many Professors and Students of Clark University Disgusted With Action of President at Lecture on Socialism

Professor Scott Nearing was lecturing on socialism before the Liberal Club of Clark University when the president of the university, a man named Atwood, walked into the hall, listened a few minutes, and announced that the meeting was dismissed. The extraordinary character of the announcement, its bad manners, insolence and bad faith, led everyone to misunderstand this announcement, and the lecturer continued. Whereupon the extraordinary president turned the lights off and left the hall in darkness.

It is reported in one of our conservative newspapers, which waxed honorably indignant at the president's conduct, that a great many of the professors of the university and most of the students are thoroughly disgusted with the undignified and impudent performance of President Atwood.

Concerning the matter, Dr. Nearing said: "This is the first time that a university president ever went to the trouble to prove by a public act that he was unwilling to let the students hear our side of the case, and I have been allowed to speak without interruption at many of the most prominent colleges and universities in the country."

The only explanation of Dr. Atwood's absurd performance is that he is a little man, of no intellectual consequence. We may feel sure therefore, that the incident will not be repeated, because college presidents are not of that quality of intellectual meanness and ignorance of history and human nature and the theory and practices of a free government.

Boom Aviation Here

Boston, With Its Convenient Jeffries Point Field, Is the Logical Place for a Great Centre

Boston is the logical place for a great aviation centre.

That statement, bearing out the repeated assertion of this paper, is made by Captain Eddie Rickenbacker, the famous "Ace," speaking at a dinner given him by the Aero Club of Massachusetts. The fliers are here in great numbers; the necessary capital is here if it can be interested, and the grounds for the flying fields.

Jeffries Point field in East Boston appeals to Captain Rickenbacker, who says he is confident that in time it will become a reality.

Certain it is that we should no longer allow the development of aviation to remain in private hands. It may be that Boston by taking the lead in this matter, so vital to the future of the country, can teach other cities their lesson of real patriotism; can show the whole nation the way.

The bill now pending before the Legislature for the Jeffries Point field is a good first step. It should pass.

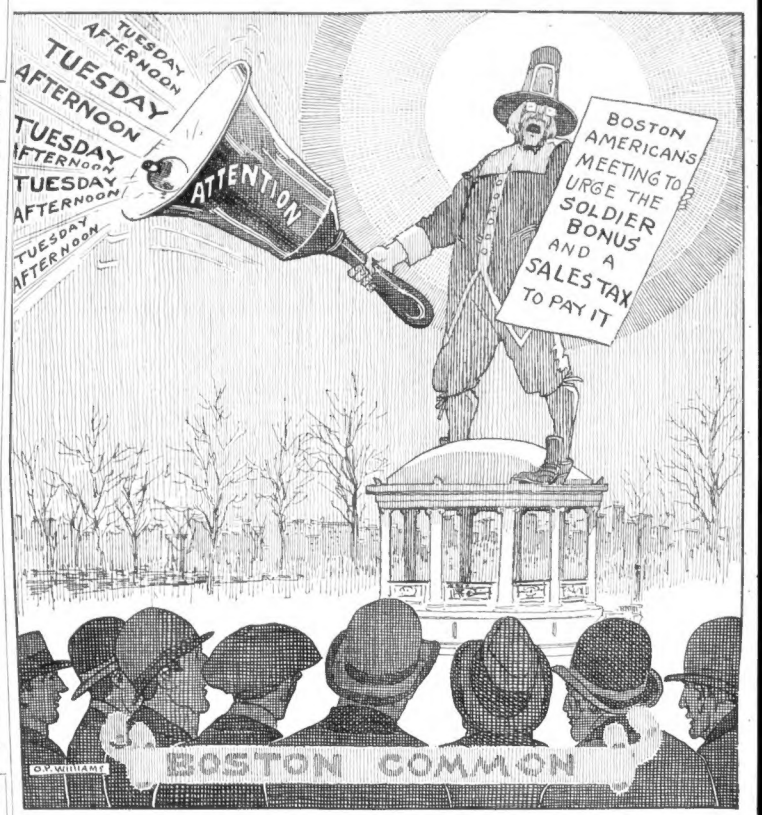

Protect Revere Bathers

Nothing but immediate action on the part of the metropolitan police patroling the Revere Beach reservation can save that popular resort from irreparable injury.

Clam diggers with little respect for laws or restrictions have invaded the three-mile stretch of sand. In their quest for the shell fish, that section of the beach between Revere street and Point of Pines is littered with broken clam shells.

Some effort was made by those living in the vicinity to curb this nuisance, but it resulted in failure, owing to lack of co-operation.

Somebody's Birthday

IF today is the anniversary of your birthday you are in need of no one to tell you your virtues, for you know them as surely and as accurately as any self-admiring person could know them, but your faults you are inclined to underestimate.

You are magnetic in personality and a shrewd politician, capable of putting your powers of attraction to instant and profitable use.

Whether a man or a woman, you will want to marry the same type as yourself, which is the most precarious type for you to choose.

It would be better to let fate play its part, for you never would choose voluntarily the person who would really be good for you.

Today should prove auspicious for romance, and marriages contracted will be joyful and enduring.

Financially you will have a fortunate year, provided you take sedulous care of your health. Under no circumstances should you move from a low to a high altitude, or vice versa.

Children born today will be impassive in their early youth, and in maturity powerful and successful in all walks of life.

Famous people born today:

James B. Herreshoff, shipbuilder.

James Matthews, educator.

Smiles

A PRESIDENT WITH A PULL

"Quite a fine looking university you have here," said the stranger.

"Yes," the prominent citizen replied, "and it's remarkable in one respect, too."

"How's that?"

"The president gets almost as much as they pay the director of athletics."

A HOPELESS PROPOSITION

David Wark Griffith says the movies need new stories, new plots, more than they need new beauties. He is right, undoubtedly, but let somebody who has a story or a plot that is new try to find a movie manager who will consider it.

IT SEEMS TO BE COMMON

All Classes Tire of Work at Times

By Winifred Black

Copyright, 1922, by Newspaper Feature Service, Inc.

DEAR WINIFRED BLACK:

The paper with your story in it is under my cake that fell in the middle and nearly slid off when I put the icing on. I wanted to make it just once more—the white icing, you know—to see if Fate still kept my hand out for spite. I think it is still against me in that line.

So, some day, another year, perhaps, after I've finished school, I'll get out of the cake-icing, dish-washing, dusting, and get into something I don't despise quite so much. I shouldn't, I know, but when one has done it so long, one doesn't like it. I hope I will some day again, if there's ever a reason I should.

Hope of the World

I haven't any beaux, never have had—probably never will have. I've had to grow up too soon. I'm too practical. I don't do the nonsensical, silly little things that girls do who are always the centre of a crowd. I've never had fudge parties or a ruffled dimity, or a mother to object to the length.

I'm sure if my mother had lived—when she died I wasn't four yet—she wouldn't have been cross and unyielding and many mothers. I'm sure she would have seen her daughter's side of the question and would have weighed it against her own, letting the mature judgment of motherhood balance the scales. LONESOME GIRL.

There, now—there's your letter, in plain print, little Sister—not all of it, but the part that seemed most interesting to other girls—like yourself.

Never had any beaux? Dear me, what a tragedy! And you're nineteen years old—just think of it—how ancient of days you are!

And you are too practical, are you, bless your heart! That's just why everybody likes you, and I know they do. That's just why you're the very centre and the hope and the joy of the house—and you don't know a thing about it.

You're so simple-hearted and unaffected and you think so little of yourself that you don't realize that a girl like you is like a breeze straight from the ocean, sweeping into a close, fetid tenement—or shut-up room where one lies ill and out of tune with all the world.

Why, you're the hope of the country, the faith of the world—you darling, you, you and your cake and its icing and all the little things you do so well there at home!

Tired of drudgery? Whisper—the greatest actress you may have seen gets tired of acting—and the most celebrated writer gets tired of writing. I suppose even the great singers get tired of singing.

That's what life is, my dear—getting tired and then getting rested again — getting thirsty and getting a drink—being sleepy and going to sleep—getting hungry and enjoying your food—being lonely and learning to appreciate good company.

So Fascinating

Life sounds so glittering and fascinating to you, doesn't it, there in your quiet home, and if you could only look into the mind—let's say—of the great singer as she leaves the theatre, you'd find her thinking, not of the flowers that crowd her dressing-room, not of the diamonds her maid is carrying, but of her little boy, maybe, and how he passed his examinations, or her frail old mother, and whether the new diet is going to agree with her.

The famous author—what do you suppose worries him? The way his shoe hurts over the instep, or what's the matter with his wife when she doesn't laugh at his jokes?

We're all so much alike, my dear, all so very much alike!

Go on with your cake and your frosting and your dusting and your home-making. The world needs you and girls like you as it never needed them before.

Letter to the Editor

Beware!

Editor Boston American:

As a Mayflower descendant, and one whose ancestors fought for this glorious country to obtain freedom from British dominion, I wish to thank you for the firm stand you take against foreign entanglements of any kind whatsoever.

The propaganda put out by the British throughout the war and ever since has been and is far more subtle and extensive than that of any other nation. If you will kindly publish what follows it may help to enlighten many as to what the British really think of the United States.

Before the United States entered the war, we entertained at Thanksgiving Day dinner a London born and bred man and his wife, and this is what he was so insolent as to tell us before leaving. With a deprecatory wave of his hand he exclaimed:

"Oh, Americans there are none. You are only cosmopolitans. And as for your so-called country, it is only England's lost colonies."

Because he was our guest we refrained from kicking him out of the house, but we have never seen him since.

Americans, that is the way the English regard us. Beware! It is certainly very unfortunate that the white races of the world are so blind to their own best interests. Future historians will call the late lamentable war the suicide of the white race.

ALICE CANTERBURY MARION.

Ex Libris

—By Zoe B. Faber—

IF you are one of the few who haven't a confirmed prejudice against a book written in the first person and if you enjoy a story of the men who first went across this country when it was a wilderness and if you can wade through countless pages of detail, then read Herbert Quick in "Vandemark's Folly." Quite a lot of 'ifs.'

Most of the stories which treat of this sort of thing seem to land invariably in California or Colorado or thereabouts, but Herbert Quick touched a part of the country which is more or less unusual in this particular connection. He chose the plains of Iowa—and the adventures in reaching there from a boyhood job to the Erie Canal.

As a novel there are countless which are better considered from any angle, but as sidelights on the early history of the Middle West it is of interest.
